MAYFIELDER 1982

Mayfield Senior High School
6116 Wilson Mills Road
Mayfield Village, Ohio 44143

Brush defenders are left empty-handed as Mike Lanese heads for the goal line behind the block of Nick lademarco.

Love is . . . Katie Doerzbacher and Wayne Impullitti.

LOOK AT US...

Variety is what we are about. From our labs to our fields we are struggling, learning, and, hopefully, growing. The path from kindergarten to graduation has not been without its turns . . .

Exhausted after a full day of practice, Jim Costable hammers out the final measures of "Fame."

Learning from each other are Lisa Antonelli and Barb Oliver.

M&M Captain, Diane Bird, lights up another halftime.

One of Mayfield's finest traditions: Don Bossard gives life to others.

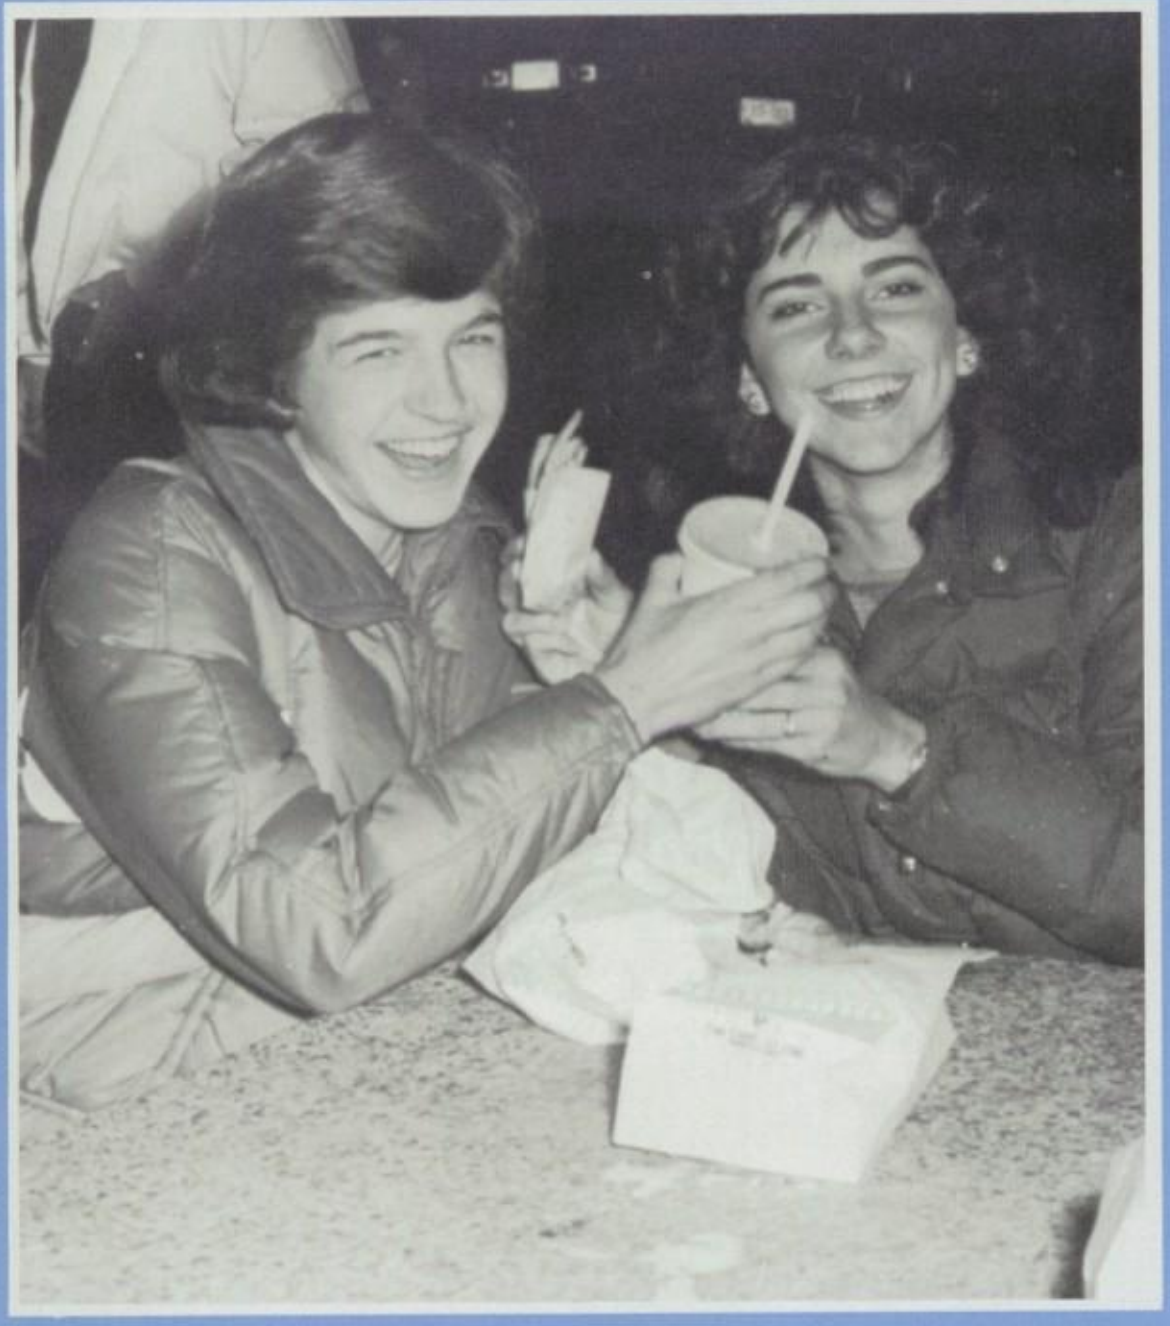
GROW WITH US...

Unfortunately, many students choose to sit down along this path or look for a shortcut, while others challenge life's detours. Confronting these obstacles is often frustrating and time consuming. Support from family and friends buoys our spirits and encourages involvement. Through others we become . . .



Sophomores, Colleen Kretz and Mary Lou Lajeunesse share that McSpirit feeling.

The real Eric Delson.

FOLLOW US

Leaders. We seek attention. Our teachers, programs, teams and people are the yardsticks for measuring success. From K through 12, we have been the trendsetters. Others "size us up" and follow our example. We "size us up" and seek to improve.

Wild about our Wildcats!

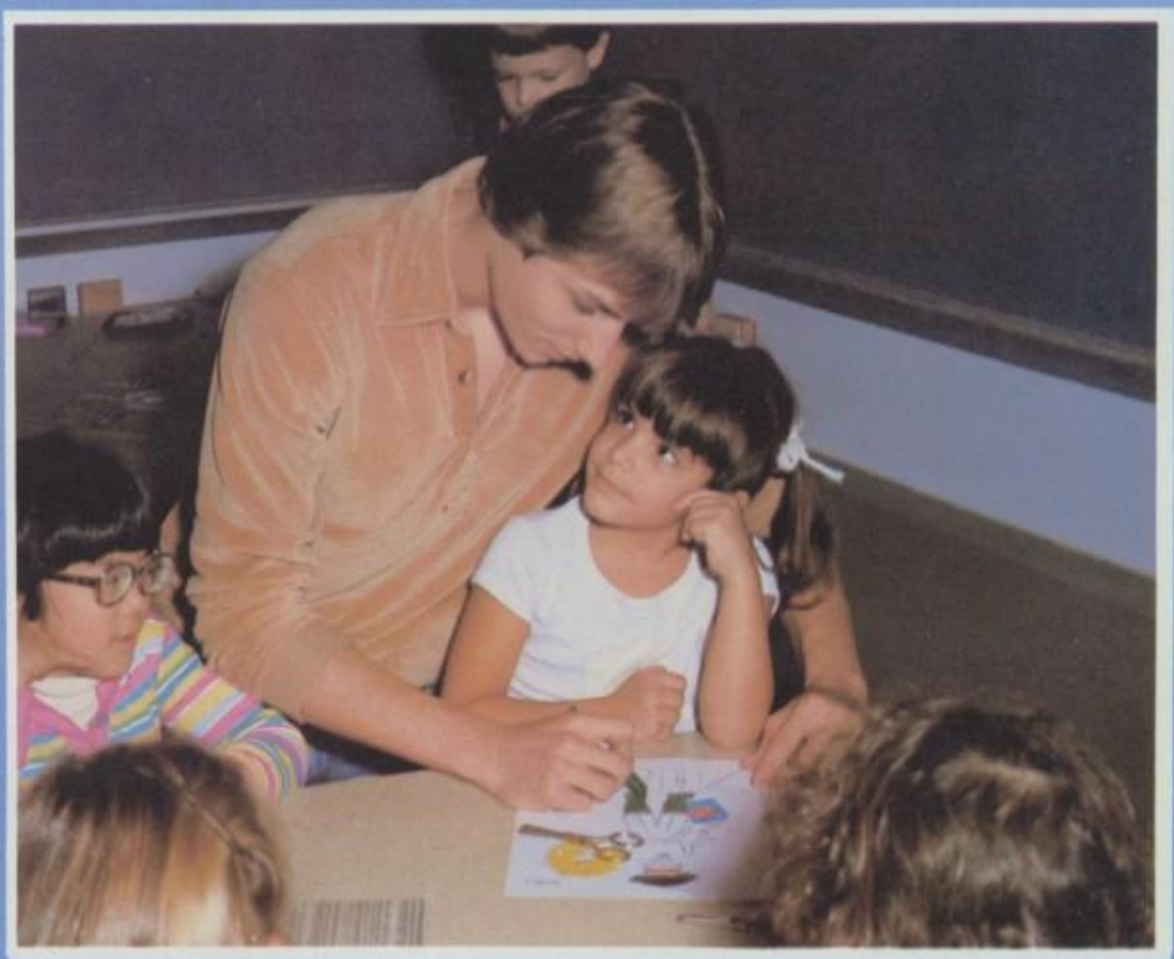
Polishing an award-winning cheer for competition at the Euclid Square Mall.



Can you doubt that young Debbie will ever forget kindergarten and the help of Jeff Thomas?

Jest another Halloween for Colleen Kretz.

STUDENT LIFE

On Parents' night, our seniors in the band express their appreciation for Mom and Dad.

Dancing can be uplifting as Chuck Kerr and Sharon McClain can attest.

THE SECOND SHIFT

Modules 19-27

No one can deny that we are all students of M.H.S.; however, our life as students does not end at 2:45. Beginning at 2:45, the heartbeat of Mayfield takes a definite upswing that usually does not skip a beat until the custodians close at 11 P.M.

In those hours, we become familiar with the Spirit Clubs creating and hanging new banners for the next game; while up the stairs and down the aisle in the auditorium, members of Mayfield Players are grabbing brushes to turn plywood and 2x4's into their next set. The activities that constitute our life very often extends beyond the walls as Great Jubilation entertains the public in front of city hall or our dedicated candy stripers head for Hillcrest to make someone's day a little more enjoyable.

If there is one common reward that permeates each activity, it is the exhilaration we feel from making someone else's day brighter or their burdens less bothersome. We have learned to grow and enjoy ourselves through involvement. The final reward is a more fulfilling life both in school and out. The more we do; the more we are.

Summing up our successful season, Eric Delson belts out "We are the Champions."

Cold weather cannot chill the spirit of cross country fan, Laurie Cotton.

For those who took the plunge, M*A*S*H proved to be another Szuhay success.

"TOUCHDOWN!" Wayne Rositano plunges into the end zone tying up those Cardinals as our cheering section reacts.

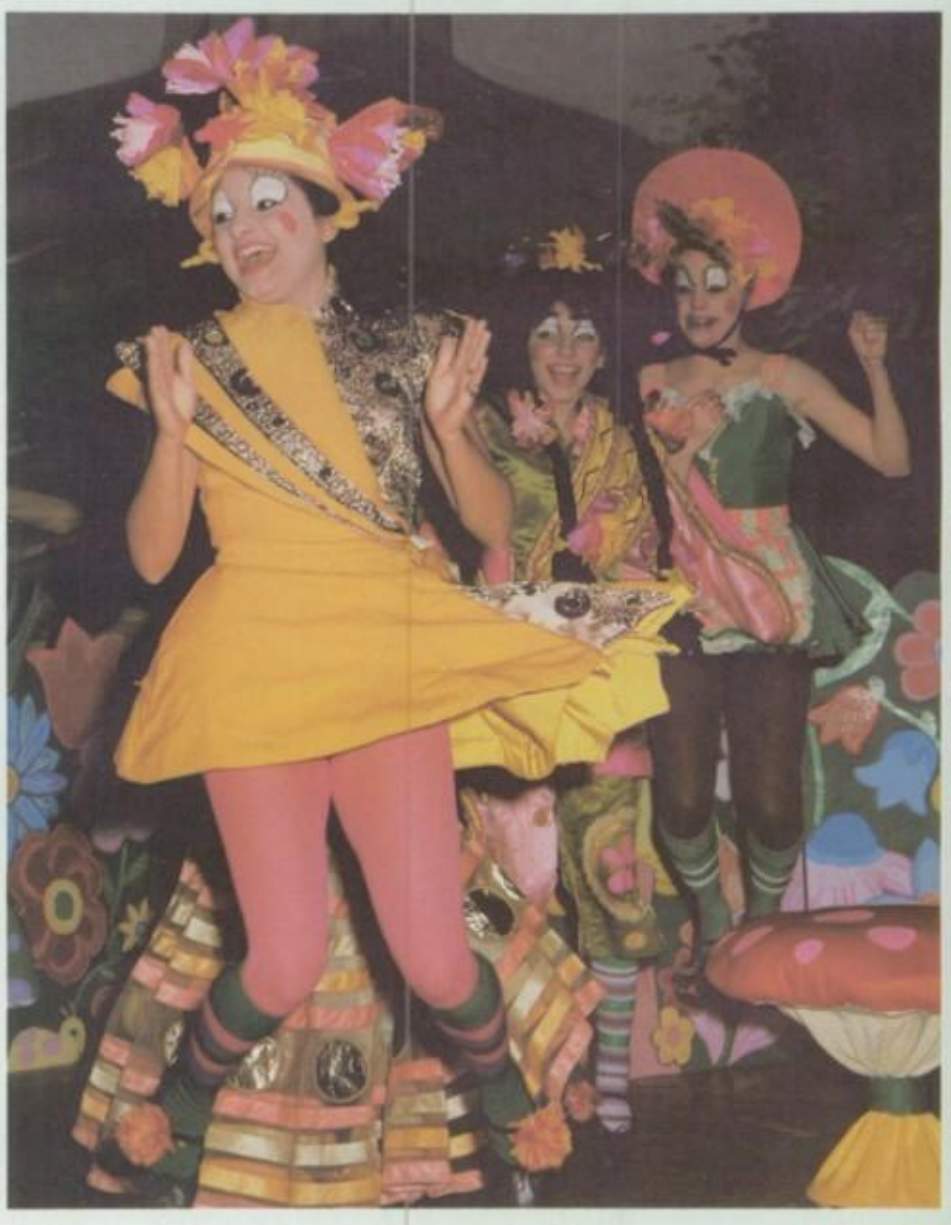
NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Last spring Mayfield's stage was caught up in a Kansas twister that carried it to a far-away land "somewhere over the rainbow." Stephanie Averill, in her first starring role, filled the silver slippers of Dorothy perfectly. Her ever-faithful dog, Toto, (Kevin Fryer) gave the play a humorous twist. While travelling through the magical land of Oz, Dorothy befriends a scarecrow (Mark Bartolotta), a tin man (John Blanc), and a cowardly lion (Brad VanVeghel). The wicked witch (Leslie Russo) was hot on their heels as they tried to make their way to the Emerald city in search of the Wizard of Oz (Tom Connor). After the evilness of the wicked witch was doused, Dorothy returned safely to Kansas with the help of the good witch, Glinda (Diane Bird).



Munchkinland and Marci Mondello rejoice over the death of the wicked witch.

"I do believe in spooks; I do believe in spooks," is roared out by cowardly Brad VanVeghel.

Sue Drummond and Chris Keshock share a private moment at the refreshment table.

BEST OF TIMES

As we reflect on the events of the past year, Prom of 1981 stands out. The 200 couples enjoyed a prime-rib dinner and a memory-laden night of dancing at the Normandy Party Center in Wickliffe. Events moved along slowly until the "bewitching" hour. As the hands approached twelve, the tempo changed. One polka after another tempted everyone to his feet. Soon the whole place was rocking to the sounds of our own Roy Baker's sax. Roy's unique rendition of "Celebration," became just that.

We hated to see the evening end, but Cedar Point beckoned. Unfortunately, the "best of times" often seem like the "shortest of times."

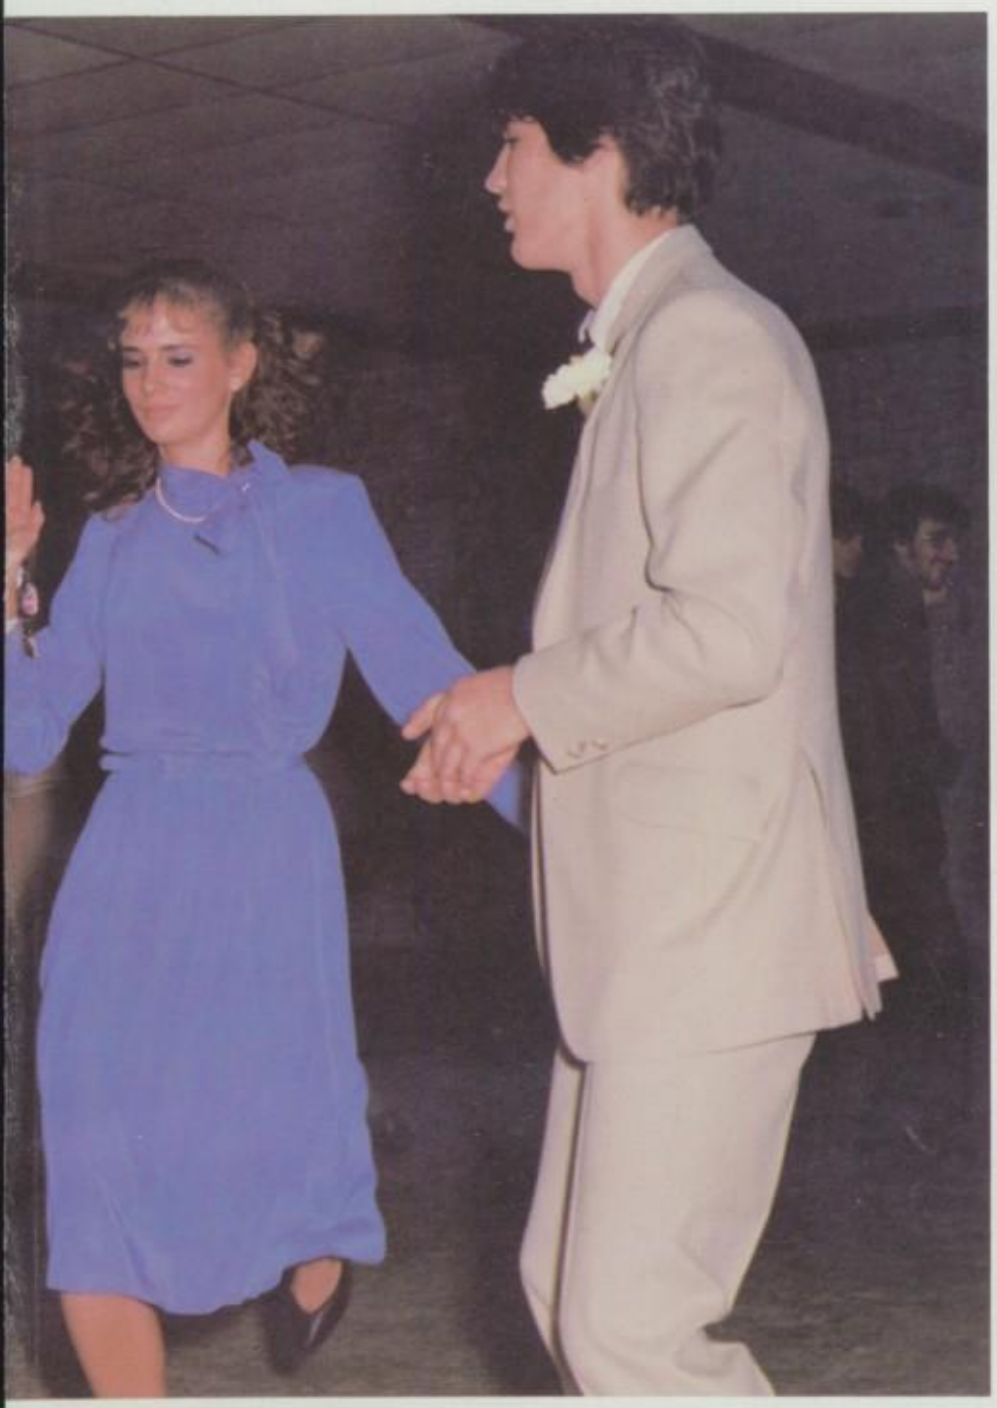
OUR OCTOBERFEST

The excitement and anticipation of both the crowning of our 1981 Homecoming Queen and the upcoming football game against the Mentor Cardinals had everyone in suspense. Friday morning, mums adorned the shoulder of almost every girl as the day moved quickly toward the afternoon pep rally. Friends and families remained breathless until it was finally announced that Lisa Wishmeyer would be our Homecoming Queen.

The cheers had only started. That night, in a seldom-seen packed stadium, our Wildcats dominated the Cardinals but had to settle for a 10-10 tie. On Saturday night the celebration continued as 150 couples crossed the moat to their "Castle of Dreams."

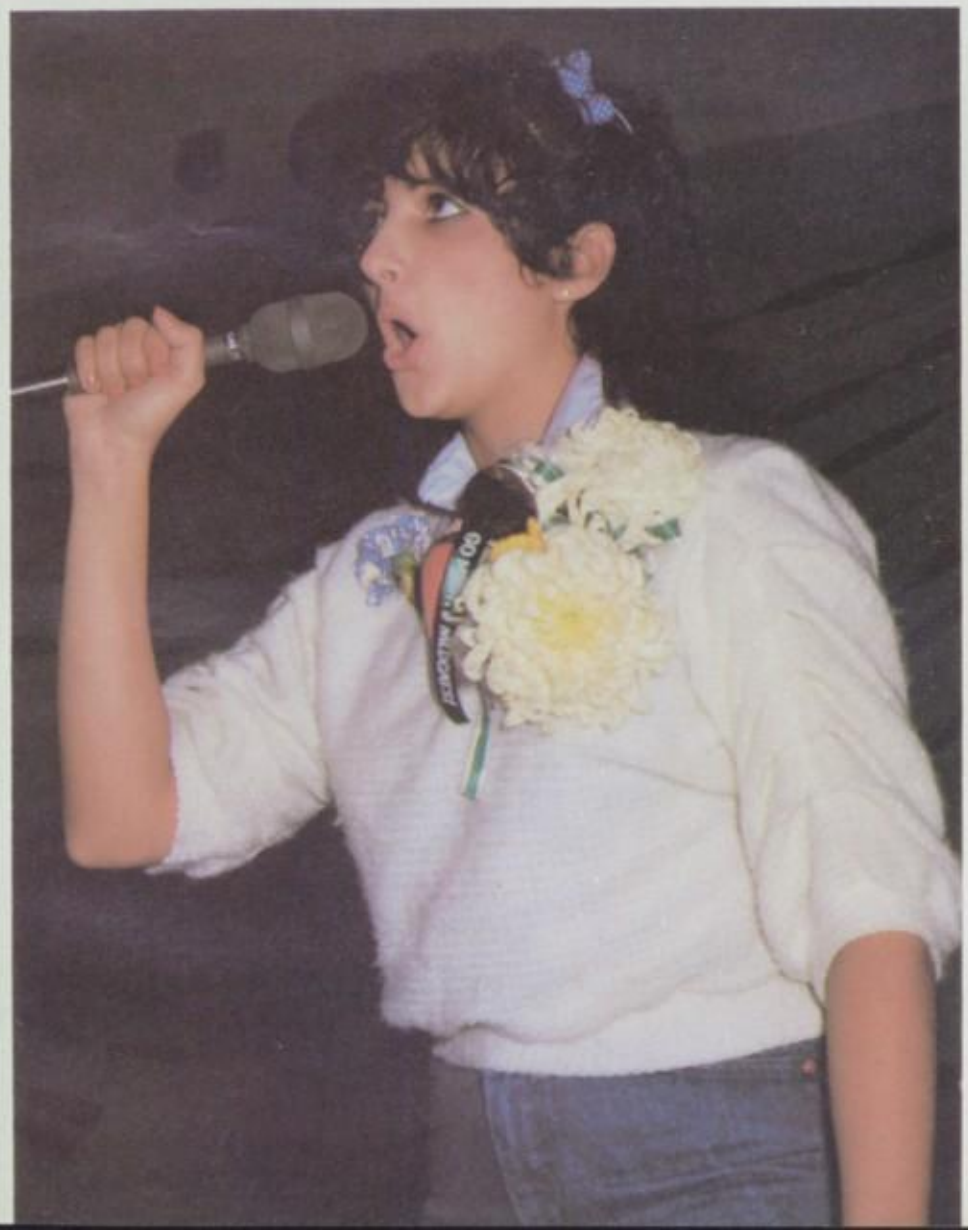
Majoring in spirit are our M&M's.

Wildcat jaws spew forth Jeff Agresta, Pat Leddy, and the entire Wildcat team.



Dancing the evening away to the music of "Destiny," are Debbie Krause, Sue Benda, and their escorts.

Concentration is the key in exchanging flowers as Val Murray and Paul Byrne show.



Smiles all but conceal the hidden tension prior to the announcement of this year's Homecoming Queen.

Pep assemblies were no longer the same with the added attraction of Chris Cianciolo's singing.

Years of dancing lessons pay off as Wayne Rositano and Lisa Martin show off their new steps.

Homecoming Court for 1981: John Blanc and Sue Kovach, John Maniaci and Kathy Fertal, John Frabotta and Queen Lisa Wischmeyer, Al Kretz and Diane Bird, Brad Kowit and Barb Strumbly.

Ladies-in-Waiting Maria Dileno, Jackie Colomina, and Stacey Perkul serve punch to thirsty patrons.

Because of the lack of lighting, searching for the reservation shields proved to be a frustrating situation.

"Ease on Down the Road" with John Zagara.

A ROYAL OCCASION

Homecoming 81's "Castle of Dreams" put the crowning touch on a near-perfect weekend. A full day of decorating by the members of Student Council transformed our cafeteria into a medieval castle. Seventy-five fair maidens were escorted across the drawbridge by knights in shining armor. Queen Lisa Wischmeyer and her court reigned over the gala event as the subjects of her kingdom enjoyed dancing to the sounds of "Destiny." Freshmen Student Council, dressed appropriately as ladies-in-waiting and squires, served their lords refreshments all evening. For those who came in quest of romance and warm surroundings, the evening was not a disappointment.

The eyes of Rob Shulman and Regina Diulus say it all.

Thanks to our solar-energy panels, this window is decorated for the last time by Therese Atiagovich and Reggie Mormile.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

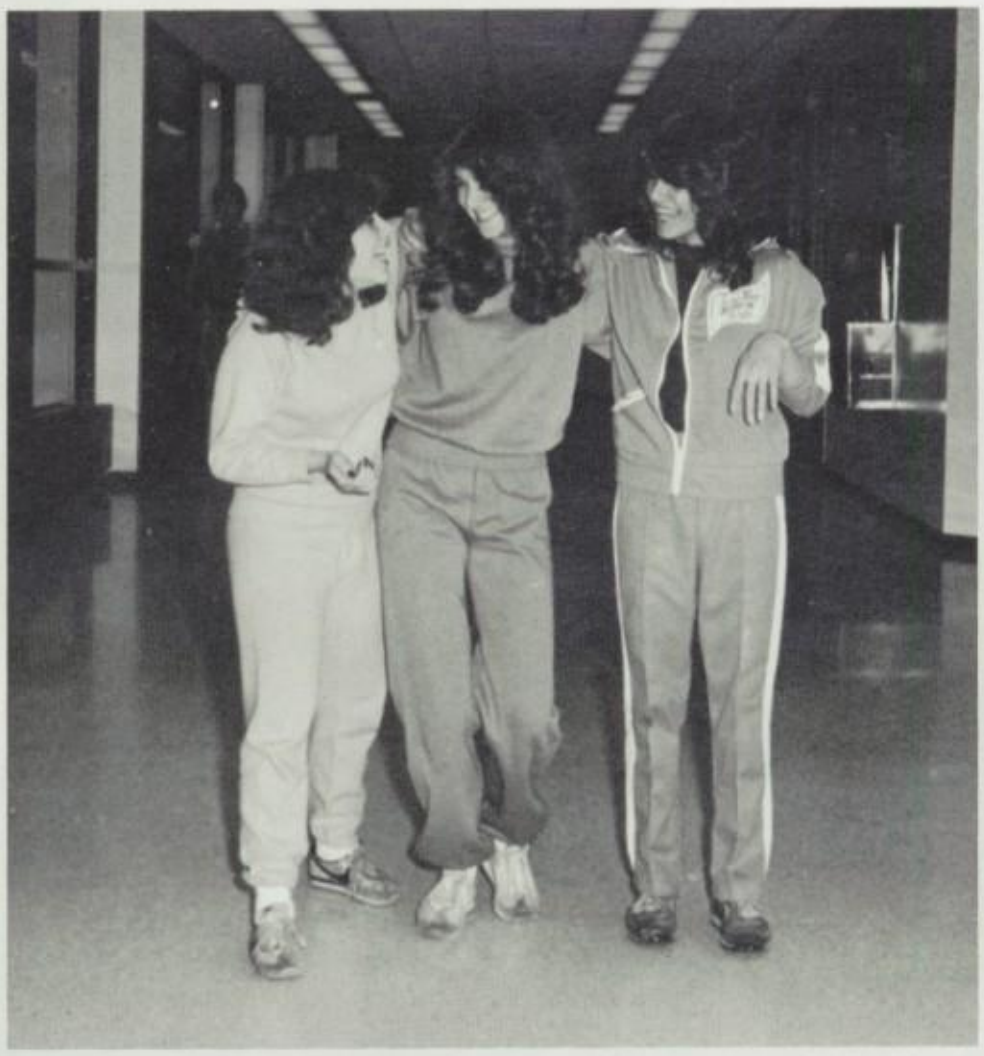
What do suspenders and overalls, cowboys and cowgirls, sweatsuits, inside-out clothing, and green and white outfits have in common? All have become part of an annual affair called Spirit Week.

Walking into the building Friday morning was the highlight of this week. It's amazing what a little ingenuity and crepe paper can do to sterile, cold walls and locker areas.

EDITORIAL COMMENT: Didn't it seem like we were just going through the motions during Spirit Week this year? It can be so much more. Scheduling this before the Brush game every year would generate GENUINE emotions, and increasing the publicity would get more involved.

Rounding up males is discussed by cowgirls, Lynn Gambatese and Sharon Petrik.

Snap is put into Jackie Turk's school work by Sue Riga.



Spirit Week proves to be no sweat for Sue Riga, Julie Burch, and Dawn Carmigiano.

Facial expressions on Lorraine Zimmer, Elaina Ariemma, and Kim Dicker show their spirit, not their clothes.

After a long day of stalking the cafeteria, Sandy Wood finally catches his lunch.

Since her bus did not arrive, Bridget Lorenzo decided to fly home.

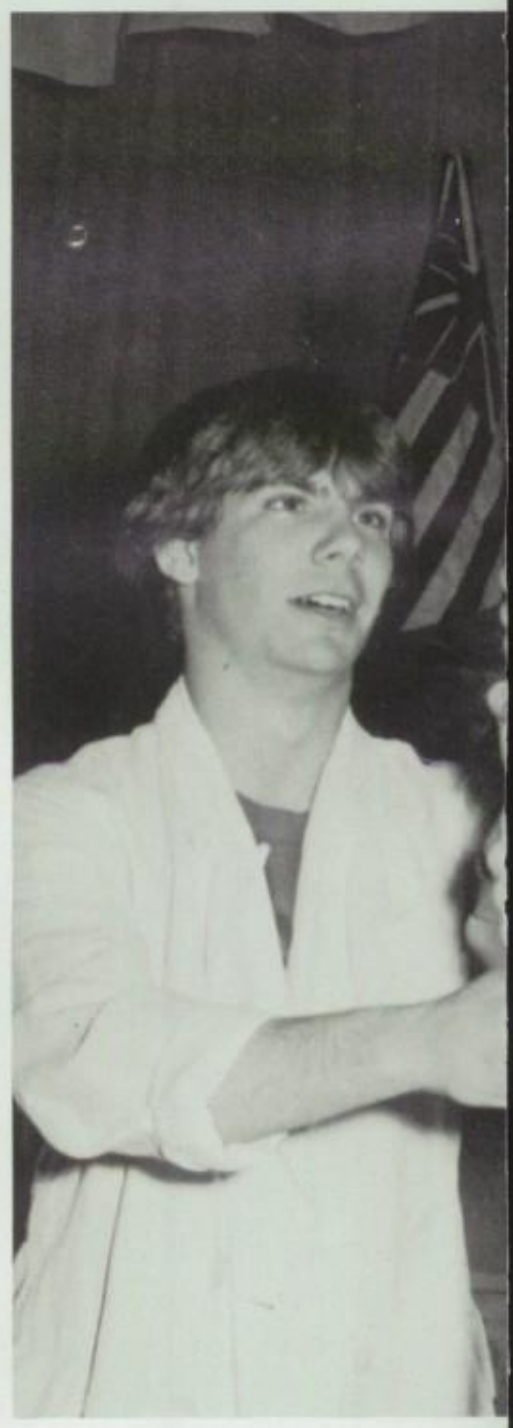
AM I HALLUCINATING?

"Hello, Mom? You've got to get me out of this school! The entire place has gone crazy. There's a tomato and four coneheads walking down the hall towards me right now. You've got to pick me up right away! If you don't, I'm going to ask this fairy godmother to make me disappear.

"Pick me up by the flagpole. Change that . . . the POLE just walked away."

WENDY'S is so successful, that Ronald McDonald's wife moonlights as one of our busdrivers.

Trying to outdo the other is a minute to minute experience for Eric Delson and Chip McTighe. Kelly Greene is not impressed.



M*A*S*H crew members fail to shock Scott Williamson out of his deep depression.

Many "Dear Jane" letters were mailed State-side after Chris Cianciolo, Natalie Corsaro, and Laurie Nihiser hit the Korean stage.

M*A*S*H teasers, Chip McTighe and Eric Delson, are shocked into reality by the suggestive Diane Bird.

CHOPPERS! Brad Schreiber interrupts the poker game of Quinton Flynn, Scott Williamson, and John Finucan to announce incoming wounded.

OUR KHAKI COMEDY

The Korean conflict changed the definition of "mash." Prior to this war "mash" was something done to potatoes; during the war, "mash" became something done to minds and bodies. The only way for one to keep his sanity in an insane situation like war was through laughter. Thus, the play M*A*S*H.

The play opens with the drafting of two reluctant doctors, Hawkeye (Chip McTighe) and Duke (Eric Delson). These zany M.D.'s soon end Major Burns' (Chris Manfroni) army career with a section-8, cure Walt's (Scott Williamson) suicidal depression in a wild, surrealistic scene, and torment straight-laced Major "Hot Lips" Houlihan (Kelly Greene) beyond her limits.

Not all is comedy as Hawkeye and Duke show true compassion for native Ho-Jon's (Alan Chon) desire to enter medical school. The entire M*A*S*H unit proves that L*O*V*E overcomes cultural differences and enmities as they raise the needed tuition money through a football game.

As so often happens at the conclusion of the television episodes; through the laughter, we came to the realization of the sadness and reality of war.

A SEASON OF LOVE AND FRIENDS

Despite their slim wallets and bulging waistlines, everyone enjoys the holiday season. It's early enough in the winter that snow still possesses an aesthetic value, and it's late enough that vacation holds a special attraction. Shopping may prove traumatic, but rushing frantically from store to store isn't nearly as draining as sitting through a day of lectures. What better time is there to celebrate with family and friends, those special people who never lose the holiday spirit? The holiday season means so much: more to share, more to enjoy, more to be thankful for, and more to remember.

Mmmm! It took awhile, but Barb Oliver finally chose the cookies she wanted from Patty Hauser at Hough Bakery. They were in the shape of miniature yearbooks.

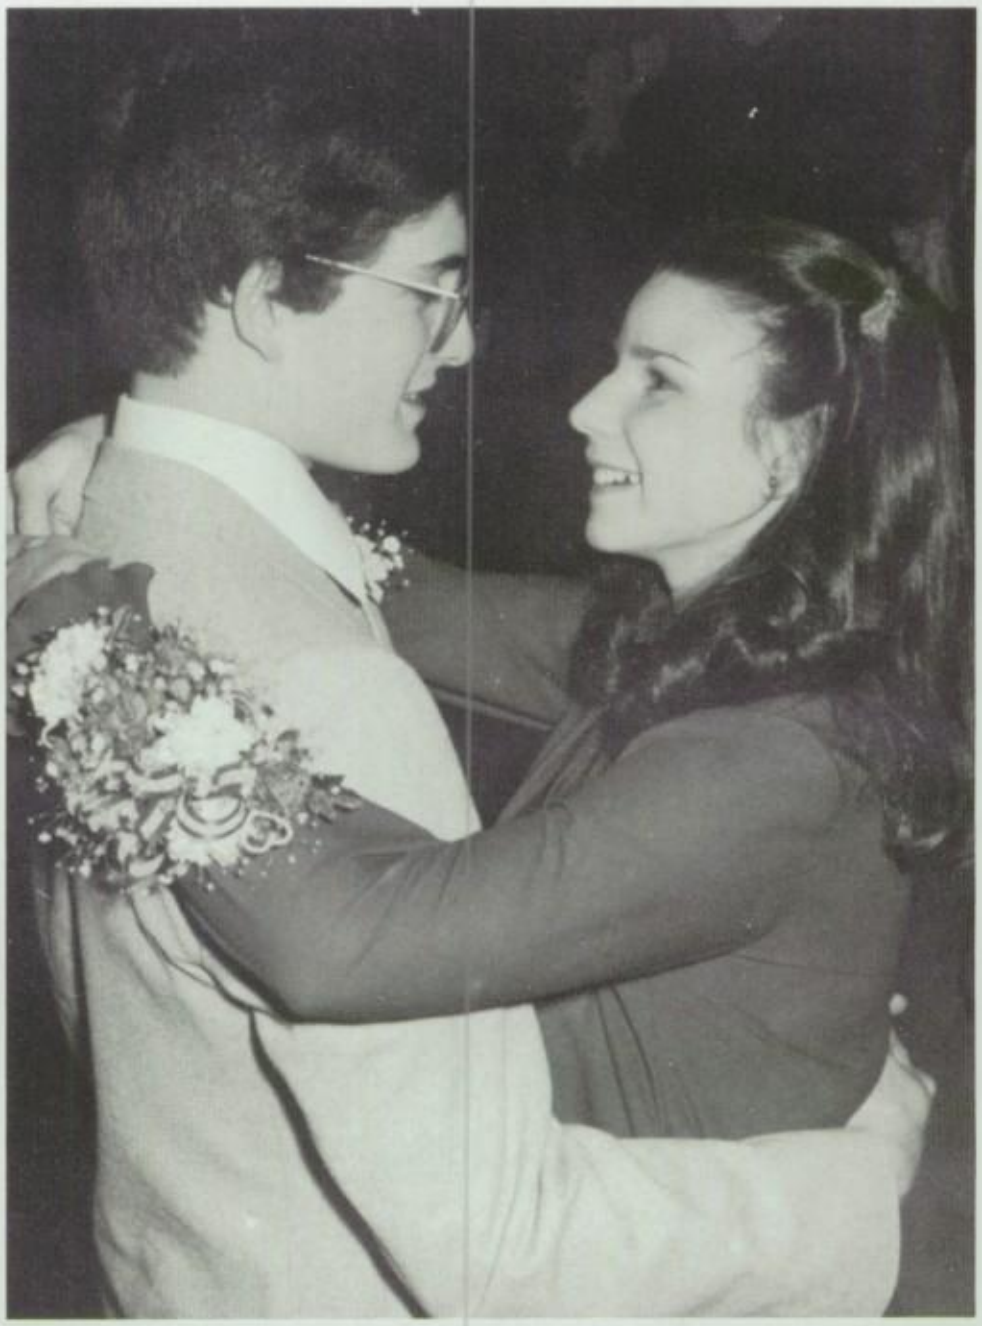
You wouldn't get any arguments from Vince Culotta and Sandy Sawyer if you suggested that all dance numbers should be "slow."

These girls also haul cabinets for cats. (Get it?) Have furniture and Sue Schmidt, Laurie Pattison, Laurie Nihiser, and Kathy Fertal will travel.



Would you believe that the picture of the first Cat's Cabinet organization was photographed inside of a phone booth?

Kathy Jewell and Kevin Kemelhar kept bumping into each other all throughout the dance.

The band members aren't the only ones who need a break. Enjoying each other's company during the musical lull are Bridget Lorenzo and John Browngardt.

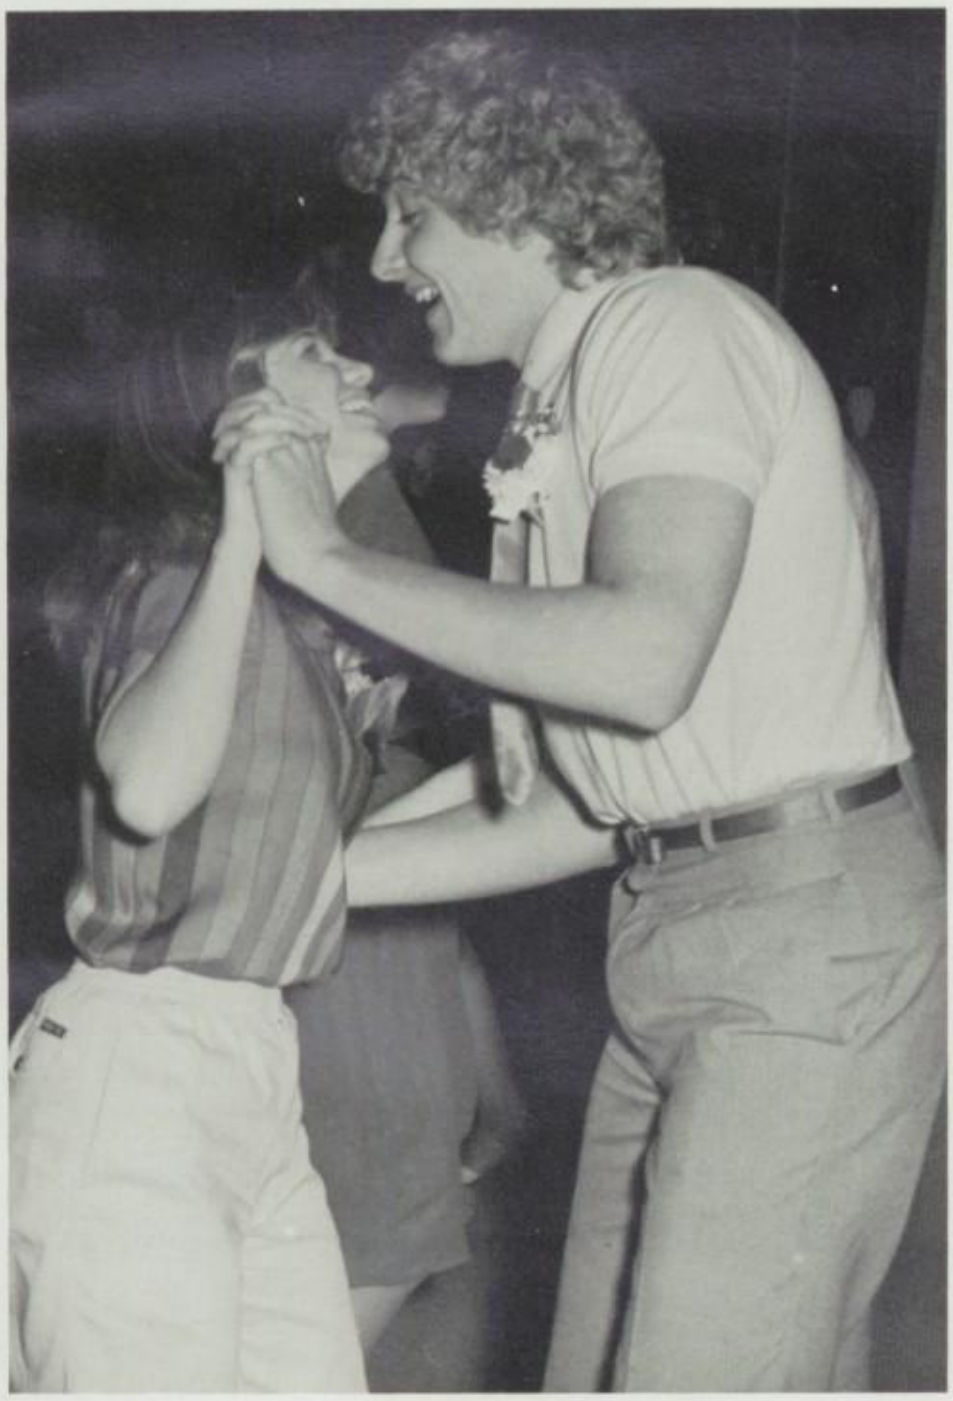
DANCING HEARTS



"These Feet Were Made For Dancin" has to be the theme song of Jim Carlisle and Linda Eisenmann. The two were a blur of yellow and smiles all evening.

February 13, 1982

Dear Diary,

You're not going to believe this, but I just returned from the Valentine's Dance held by Cat's Cabinet. After not being invited to Prom last year or Homecoming this year, I thought my dancing days were over.

One thing that separates this dance from the others is the requirement that the girls have to ask the boys. Whoever made up that rule, saved my life. In order to get a guy to say "yes," I knew I had to become more fashionable. The first thing I did was to pull my kneesocks up over my jeans. (Lumpy but fashionable.) Girls today usually wear a headband to enhance their looks. Naturally, I thought that 3 or 4 in my hair would make me irresistible to all males. (I got my bands from taking apart mom's old pot-holders.)

Fortunately, I did get a date three days ago; and yes, he is my cousin, but no one else knows that. When we arrived at the dance, I didn't even recognize the 11-12 cafeteria. Cat's Cabinet had transformed it into a vision sweeter than any dream.

The Seeholtzer Brother's Band had our feet and bodies moving from the moment the party started. I don't know where Jim Carlisle and Linda Eisenmann found all that energy for every dance. Not only was the band smooth, but our Valentine Queen, Barb Strumbly, was beautiful. (I think my cousin has a crush on her.)

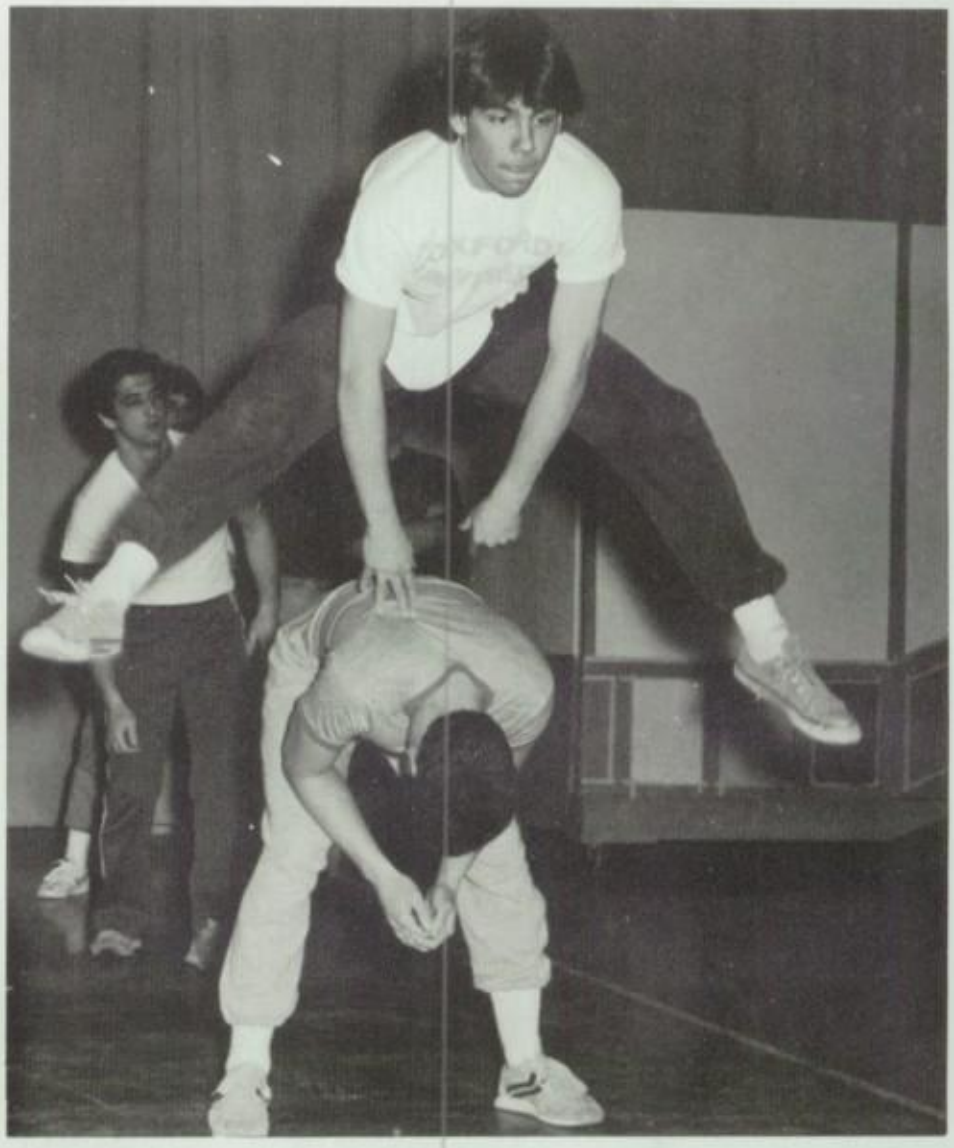
After the dance we went to the Brown Derby at Hilltop Plaza. This was the first time a date hasn't taken me to Wendy's Pick-Up window. That kielbasa dinner sure beats eating snacks on the sofa at home.

It's nice to be back into the swing of things. Good night and "Sweet Dreams."

Love,
Bubbles

After many unsuccessful and painful attempts, Chip McTighe finally got smart and told Jeff Agresta to keep his head down during this dance routine.

The stage performance of "Adelaine's Lament" lasts three, short minutes. To sing those three minutes, Chris Cianciolo spent hours rehearsing. As Chris will attest, Mr. Treu is a demanding perfectionist. It's worth the struggle, however.



At her "Save the Souls" mission, Diane Bird tries to persuade sinners to repent with the help of Lisa Bartolotta.

Diane Bird has her idea of a perfect guy; but, unfortunately, Jim Carlisle doesn't qualify. That is, until she gets a little tipsy on a few "dulce de leches" that Jim had spiked.

After being engaged for 14 years, Chris Cianciolo has heard about every excuse for putting off a marriage that you can imagine. Quinton Flynn is about ready to feed her another one.

Final details for the big "crap" game are worked out for Chris "Big Julie" Manfroni.

If these "dolls" don't dance into your hearts, nothing will.

IN THE MAKING

Before the "bums and broads" become "guys and dolls," hours must be spent in rehearsals. These pages capture all the struggling, stumbling, and stuttering it takes before the curtain is drawn on opening night. The people in these pictures are frozen forever in near-perfect poses. If it was possible to thaw them, we would both see and hear the botched lines, the missed cues, the wrong steps, and the misplaced props. All are necessary. You must learn to crawl before ever attempting to run out in front of a live audience. (Even if you are a GUY OR A DOLL.)

Whenever Eric Delson and Alan Chon are near Tim Bryll, you'd better believe they'll be smiling. You see, the local cop demands a "little respect" from these two small-time gamblers.

Mr. Hazelton might have been the target of the blow that Mary Shaw targeted for the pinata.

WAITING till 3:3

Not All Doors Lead to the Exits

Schools long ago recognized the need for their students to become involved in more than just purely academic pursuits. The education we receive should be one that comes from not only classroom learning, but also gaining confidence in our own abilities. Sports does not always fill this need because it lacks the diversity that our numerous organizations make available to us.

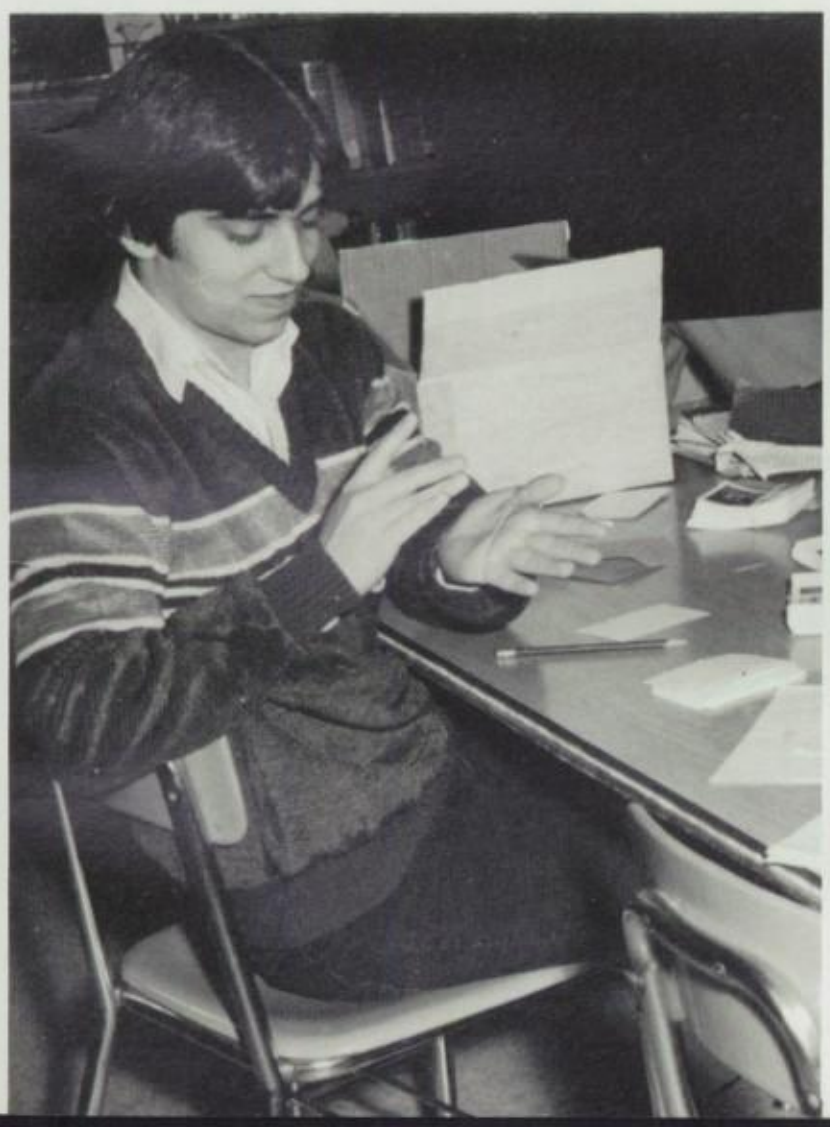
We have organizations like Tutor Friends, Media Services, and Student Council for students who wish to be of service to their classmates and community. Those of us who like performing have groups from Marching Band to Mayfield Players. If at any time we are looking to get away from it all, we can take to the slopes of Boston Mills with our Ski Club or go back packing in West Virginia with the Outing Club.

No matter what you have chosen to become involved in to further your goals, there are those students whose job is to chronicle your attempts at creativity or mere relaxation. Staff members of our MAYFIELDER and FIRST AMENDMENT enjoy in creating mirrors that reflect all that we find ourselves a part of here at Mayfield.

The degree to which we immerse ourselves in our organizations is a measure of how we will measure up in the future.

Two things brighten up the otherwise dull slopes of Boston Mills: A gentle, winter snowfall and Lisa Hanson.

Although her routine is by the numbers, Maria Suglia gives it that special touch that is so characteristic of our M&M's.



Draft boards across the U.S. would have less trouble meeting their quotas if all draftable males knew of Beth VanVeghel and Barb Watson.

Everyone has a way of relieving stress; it just so happens that Eric Finerman is toying with a rubberband. (He couldn't make the Marching Band - so this was the next best thing.)

BARBnERIC

True reward is not given, but earned. This year's MAYFIELDER is a reward to those of us on the staff who survived bouts with deadlines, writer's block and momentary lapses of creativity. Between the covers of this book you will find our dedication toward making this the best yearbook ever. That may sound like an overworked phrase to you, but our honest intention is to make each edition better than the last.

This year we have made some major changes; hopefully, they were improvements. We try to take ideas and opinions of our peers and transform them into usable material. We have always valued the opinions of those who offer constructive criticism. We like to feel that we are reaching the hearts of those we are attempting to touch.

We hope that you have as many memories in this yearbook as we do. If looking through the MAYFIELDER brings the joy of reminiscing to you, then we are satisfied with that success.

NOTE: Our editors, Barb Oliver and Eric Finerman, will not have banquets in their honor or public recognition for their achievements. Their rewards are internal - knowing that they've created a treasure of memories that will appreciate with time.

Much of the creating of a totally new yearbook fell into the creative hands of Barb Oliver.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS: Front Row: Officers - Sue Kovach (Secretary), Cindy Kee (Treasurer), Mike Lanese (President), and John Zagara (Vice President). 2nd Row: Laurie Pattison, Laurie Nihiser, Quinton Flynn, Donna Majeska, Sue Riga, Sue Gaspar, Barb Walters, Stacey Perkul, Colleen Kretz, Val Murray, Sue Drummond, Debra Conti, and Lisa Cornella. 3rd Row: Chuck Kerr, Paul Hargis, Jackie Colomina, Laird Wynn, Kim Kline, Jerry Altman, Maria Evangelista, Chris Weber, Kathy Sloe, and Carol Swope. 4th Row: Gregg Adzema, Patty Hauser, Maria Dileno, Ed Pekarek, Ann Hubbell, Randy Kolin, Stacey Eggers, Karen Bird, Nancy Kee, and Tony Auletta. 5th Row: Bridget Lorenzo, Doreen Delsanter, Barb Strumbly, Grace Soukenik, Vince Culotta, Stacey Mears, Doug Ritzel, and Mike Kochevar. Top Row: Eric Finerman, Paul Monastra, and Dall Walker.

Often, something new can be confusing. Nancy Kee raises her hand to ask for further explantions.

As a member of the band, "Fury," Joe Strano strung along many hearts during our Exam Slam.

NEW DIRECTIONS

While many of us sit around complaining about what a prison this school resembles, there are those around us who work to make life here more enjoyable. Student council members try to do more than just talk about the kinds of things that should be done; they work to accomplish them.

From planning our Homecoming festivities to serving pizza and pop at the January Exam Slam, our student government is continually working to make school memories more than just study halls and old episodes of TV programs.

Of course, the real effectiveness of an organization like student council can only be judged on its ability to move forward and make constructive suggestions. Under the leadership of Mike Lanese, John Zagara, Cindy Kee, and Sue Kovach, this year's council attempted to create worthwhile projects through which we might all feel a closer part of Mayfield High School. Student council also was involved for the first time in voicing the student's views on the proposed 1982-83 school calendar. There were also moves by council to organize Noon Movies, a Punk Rock Concert, and a Powder Puff football game.

In the final evaluation, you must be the one to judge whether or not our student council was a success. If you think they could be doing more, why not volunteer your help next year?

If there is one aspect of Foreign Language Week that stands out, it is the variety of food. Bill Menzalora, Caryn Socoloff, and Lisa Ricchino await Mrs. Marotta's next serving.

As the yearbook went to press, Dave Ferris's destination was still unknown. (Cincinnati was high on the rumor list.)

Clevelanders take snow for granted. To Cindy Hudgins' sister from Brazil; however, it was a miracle.

TRADING WEALTH

U.S. Steel and I.B.M. are not the only ones involved in the import/export business. For several years, American Field Service has been involved in importing and exporting the best product that any nation has to offer - its young people.

It is common for A.F.S.'ers to be thrust into cultures that are totally alien to anything they have ever known. The same difficulties encountered by Cindy Hudgins in Brazil last summer were probably experienced by Xinia Arias in coming to this country from Costa Rica. We can only guess how much adapting Suzy Gluck had to go through in Japan before she finally started to feel comfortable. These sudden changes can only be handled by the most mature of young men and women. When one is 6,000 miles from home, family, and friends, he or she soon learns that change is necessary for a peaceful existence.

When it comes to sending students abroad, we like to think that we send our best. This year Kathy Cohen will journey to Malaysia while Dave Ferris has yet to discover where his plane will touch down.

Whether we speak of Cindy, Suzy, Xinia, Kathy, or Dave, we can only envy the richness that was added to their lives by their adoption of a second family and nation.

Students interested in foreign lands need not travel abroad. Here at Mayfield, our Foreign Language Club set aside the week of February 8th for its 2nd Annual Foreign Language Week. Monday through Friday, festivities ranged from wearing uncipherable T-shirts to following Mrs. Marotta's Old World recipes to create a palatable feast. While the languages may have been foreign, the fun was reflected in smiles; and they, as we know, have no accents.

Don't let the smiles on the faces of these students deceive you. Shortly after this picture was taken, they were seen to physically assault those cute little critters with billy clubs.

Evaluating the quality of our student body's literary creations is the most important task of Voices' staff members Jerry Cordaro, Suzanne Robertson, and Scott Larson.

What a sad state of affairs when you have to sell M&M's to fund your freedom of expression! Neil Cox helps the FIRST AMENDMENT'S cause as he helps Lorraine Keast finish off her 17th box.

An OLD edition of the FIRST AMENDMENT was the only available reading material for Nancy Celenza and Lee Silverberg.

FIRST AMENDMENT STAFF: Nancy Celenza, April Crihfield, Laura Pearlman, Lorraine Keast, Rachel Dobres, Lee Silverberg, and Mrs. Sue Harlan.

DUST OFF THE PRESSES

The advent of Spring usually means the Indians are winning again in Tucson, Arizona; the yearbook will soon arrive; and graduation and summer vacation are just around the corner. This year another phenomenon was added to the list: the FIRST AMENDMENT staff finally put out an edition of the school newspaper. We were certainly disappointed to see our newspaper miss covering school events that were aired by local television stations. We look to the FIRST AMENDMENT to give us the latest news not the oldest. However, the spring edition was a welcome arrival, and we can only hope that more are yet to come.

There is another group of students involved in publishing and editing. They are the members of VOICES. Their job is not to create literature but to carefully examine poems, short stories, and other works of art submitted by students. As the MAYFIELDER is a pictorial essay of the year's highlights, VOICES shows the creative side of us that cannot be captured in pictures.

With so many quality books available in our grade schools, choosing the right one can be a difficult decision. Vicki Savransky tries to help this young woman decide.

Although he was minus a campfire, John Browngardt shows a student that the sun's heat can be an alternative to the past method of roasting marshmallows.

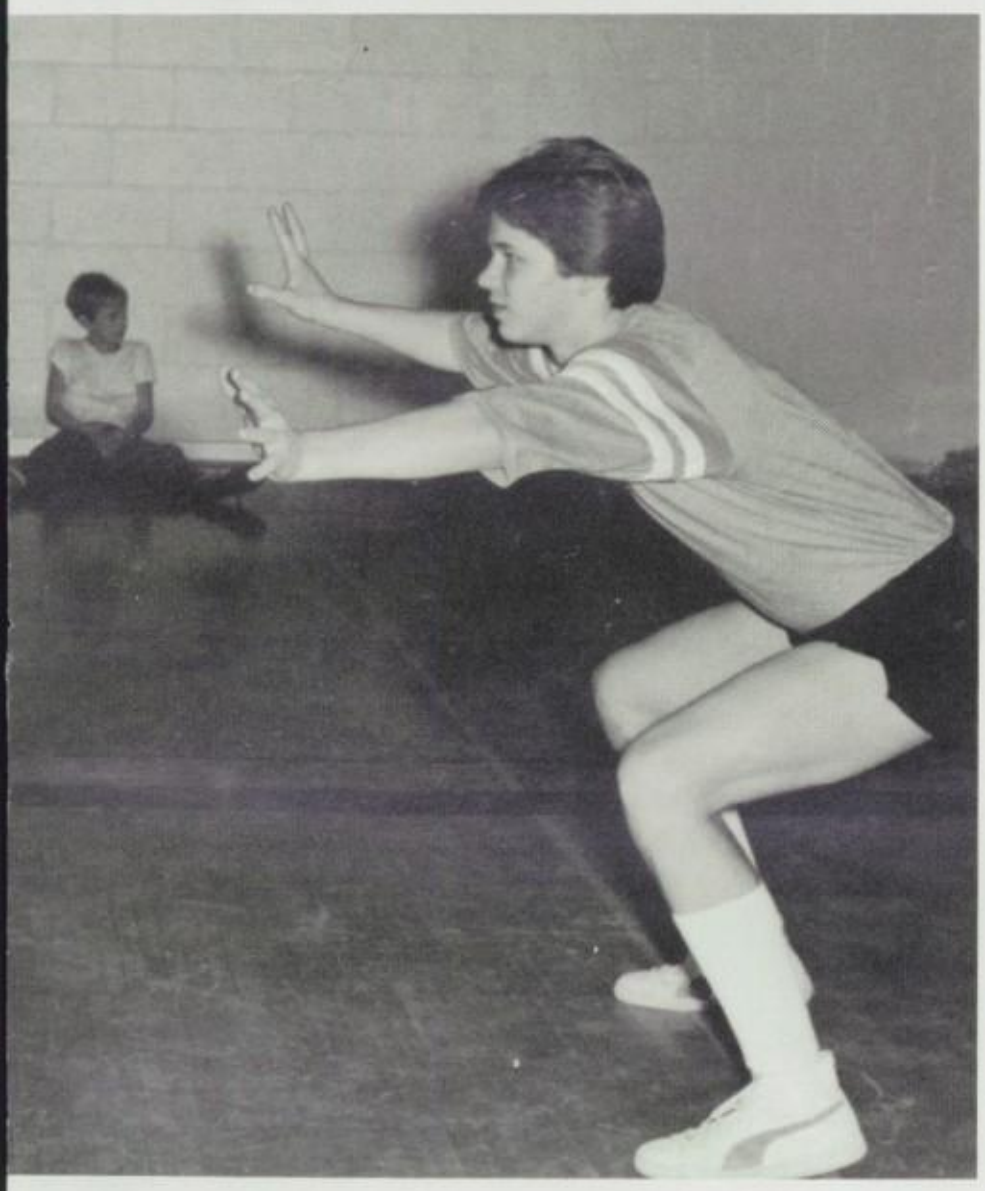
GROWING THROUGH GIVING

There are very few rewards in life that are more heart-warming than the appreciative smile of someone to whom you have donated one of your most precious assets - yourself. Little of us know that feeling more than members of both Tutor Friends and Biddy Basketball.

Maybe it's the memory of someone older having helped them at one point in elementary school, that makes our senior members of Tutor Friends so willing to donate their time and skills. Whatever the reason, the students of Lander, Oakville, Center, Gates Mills, and Millridge schools receive the tutor friends with open arms. Everyone benefits. (The only problem that might ever arise is in trying to squeeze a 6 foot frame like Jeff Thomas' into a kindergarten chair built for someone the size of Mr. Todt.)

Biddy Basketball has done much to show that tutoring need not always be academic. One of the reasons for our varsity teams' continued successes can certainly be traced to the selflessness of the team members in training and teaching tomorrow's teams.



Would you believe that this future star drove past Chris Schmidt and did a reverse stuff?

PRACTICING PERFECTION

We often overlook the fact that cheerleaders are leaders first. Being a "model" who is constantly in the spotlight is not easy. These girls not only meet THIS challenge, but also improve other organizations through their leadership abilities.

Like our actors, we notice these girls only when they are center stage. Few know that behind the scenes these girls are weekly making pizzas and good-luck notes, decorating lockers, and buying various goodies and nicknacks for often unappreciative athletes.

P.S. Our team deserves special recognition for placing second at the Euclid Square Mall's Cheerleading Competition this year.

Hopefully, Willy Lisa Martin started a new tradition this year - cheering IN the stands instead of in front of the stands. Her spirit became infectious.

LIFE ON A MOUNT

As the trees of autumn turn from an array of colors to the greys of winter, football changes to basketball and wrestling. With this change of season, also comes a change in our cheerleading squads. While many of the faces are new, there are several familiar smiles left over from fall. (Rumor has it that the hold-overs are the only ones who thawed out after the Artic weather we experienced during our last two football games.)

Once again, our winter squads had much to cheer about as both basketball and wrestling teams possessed fine records. If winning makes the cheering any easier, our girls had an easy job. Can you imagine how difficult it is for girls who cheer for a team that is 0 and 15? "We're gonna win tonight" takes on a shallow tone about that time. Fortunately, our cheerleaders were able to use the same winning cheers we had for football.

Our hope is that their efforts have not gone unnoticed by our athletes. The girls expend much time and expense to let the teams know that we care. We, in turn, appreciate the enthusiasm and abilities displayed by all of our winter squads.

When the tempo of the game increased, so did the cheering of Sue Kovach.

HALFTIME HOOPLA

"All right, let's do it again," might be heard in many places in our school after 3:30, but when that command is combined with "1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8" - we can only be talking about our drill team and flag corps. It wasn't too long in the past when little attention was paid to the performances of our Catettes. This year's version changed that attitude. CHEERS replaced jeers as spectators couldn't help but be impressed with the energy and precision of the '81 model. Drill team captains Diane Marzano and Jackie Liszak can take much of the credit for this new look, and flag corps captains Patty Young and Mitzi Gerstenfeld pushed their teammates toward perfection in one show after the other. All involved promise that next year will be better than ever.

Sheer-energy and enthusiasm is personified by Lisa Warner.

One reason for the Drill Team's success this year was the addition of Lisa Grzybowski.

Every turn of the flag is coordinated by numbers as Patty Young can attest.

Pep rallies are more than just cheering, yelling, and listening to music. Natalie Corsaro, Karen Molnar, and Diane Bird demonstrate the most important element at a pep assembly - TOGETHERNESS.

From the football field to the basketball court, Natalie Corsaro's routines were never out of step.

OUR GLITTERING GOLD

Not only did Mars and Milky Way increase in size this year, but so did our own M&M's. With a 50% increase in numbers, it was only natural that we expected performances to be twice as good. We were never disappointed. Whether it was in the wind and sleet of Eastlake North or in the beautiful weather we continually had at home, our majorettes put on one glittering show after another.

Once football season ended, senior twirlers Diane Bird, Natalie Corsaro, and Maria Suglia led their squad onto the basketball court for encore performances. Not one bit of the lustre was lost in the change of seasons. All that glitters IS gold.

Fatherly pride is evident as Mr. Bird receives a boutonniere from his daughter Diane during parent's night ceremonies.

Saxophone playing is undoubtedly Jim Carlisle's forte.

TRICT

GLOVE'S MOSQUITO CAMP

Dear Mom,

We finally got a chance to rest from practicing our new routines, so I thought I would write to let you know how I'm doing.

Practices have been intense. From the moment Teri Williamson, Dave Rupnow, and Paul Monastra burst out their tuba reveille at sunup, until the mosquito bombers carry Kim Lukas into the swamp at twilight, Mr. Treu has us repeating one tune after another. I am so winded that I couldn't blow up a balloon right now.

There are no lights out here at all, and unless you send me a flashlight soon - I might wind up in the junior girls' cabin once again. It's an honest mistake, Mom. After ten, all the trees and paths look alike. However, Kathy Kaselonis and Annette Petrof threatened to put my lights out if I end up in their cabin again.

Wait until you see the halftime shows this season. We finally got through Script Cats without spelling it wrong.

Camp has really been fun, but Mr. Treu said that I can't leave Ashtabula until you sell all of those unsold calendars that are under my bed.

Love Always,
Tooter

After Paul Monastra pushes the middle knob down, the music goes round and round, and it comes out just air.

Yes, you've seen Karen Molnar elsewhere in this book. Swing Choir is yet another activity for this multi-talented girl.

When snares are snapping and cymbals crashing, it only means that Jim Costabile is once again center stage.

Holiday Concerts would not be the same without the combined voices of Treble Choir.

Just having good voices doesn't ensure success as a choir. What is needed for that winning blend is a special conductor like Mr. Treu.

Once one hears our A Capella Choir, he or she realizes that accompaniment is not needed. The voice alone is an instrument.

ENTERTAINMENT INC.

Very often, when we speak of being involved and putting in extra time, we focus on those activities which do not get rolling until after 3:30 each day. What we overlook at those times is the existence of our multifaceted music program.

More people are regularly involved in music than any other activity in our school. (Excluding our combined sports' program) From the 9th through 12th grades, there are many musical options open to anyone wishing to give voice to his soul. Mr. Treu, Mr. Rayer, and Mrs. Drehs are constantly searching for new talent.

Students with a major interest in singing can be members of A Capella, Treble, or Swing Choirs. Each of these groups not only performs at school assemblies but also entertains various groups throughout the greater Cleveland area. A Capella choir members yearly participate in the Christmas tree lighting ceremony in front of the Mayfield Hts. City Hall, while Swing Choir packs up and heads to Severance or a local Holiday Inn to continue being our foremost ambassadors of good will. Girls' Ensemble and Chamber Choir also offer more diversity for our

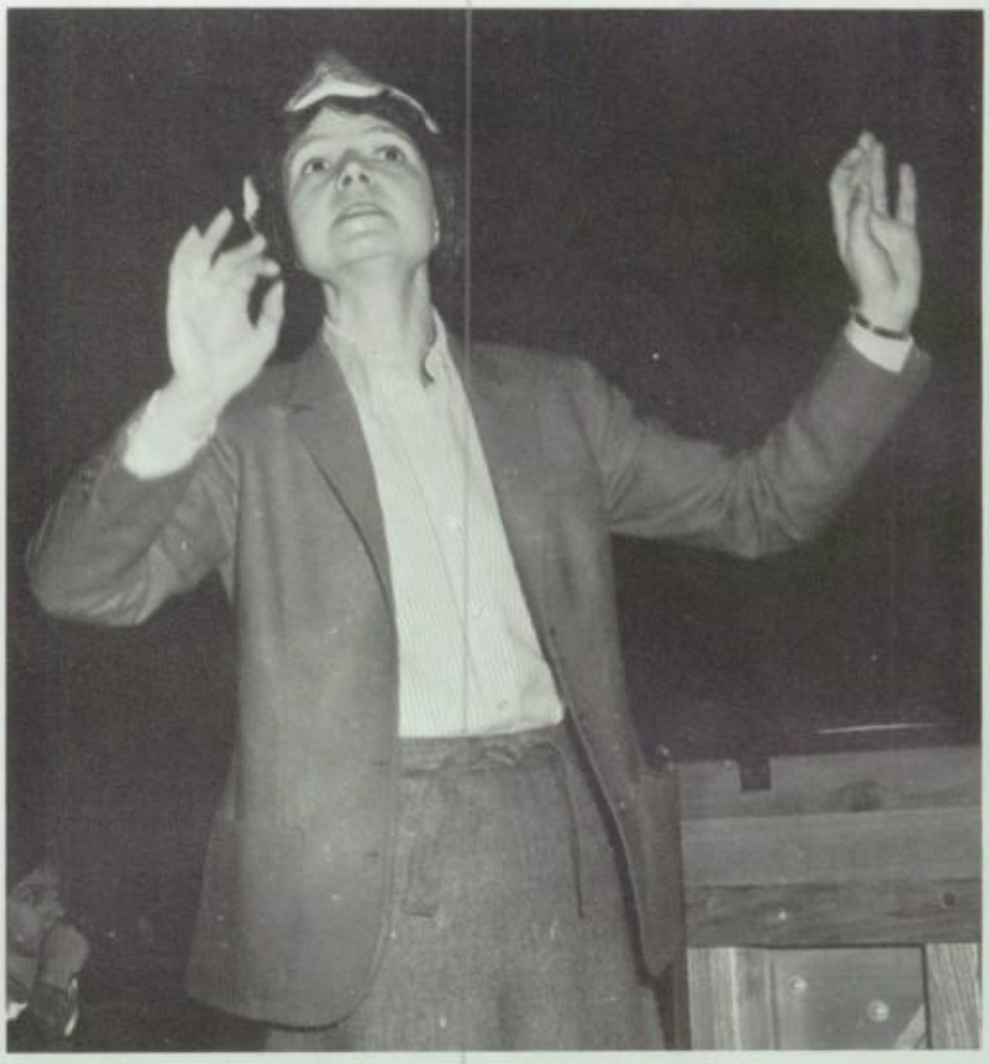
Prior to an upcoming performance, Chuck Kerr and Sue Drummond work on their routines for Swing Choir.

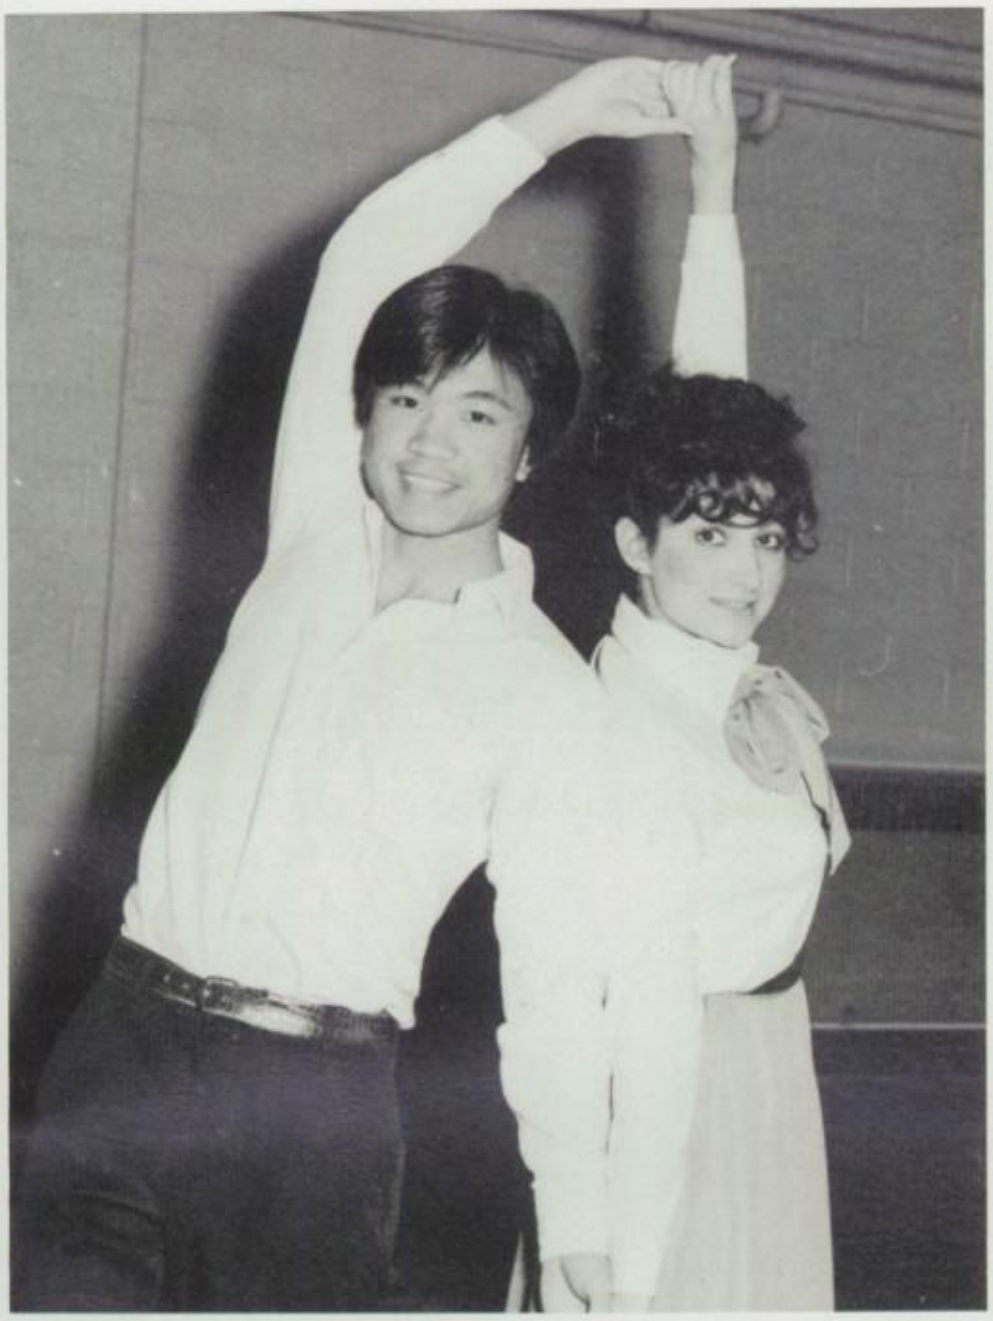
During the Holiday assembly, Mrs. Drehs leads the Girls' Ensemble through another number. Mrs. Drehs is another to lead by example.

There is no group that presents a better image of our school to the community than Swing Choir.



As the house lights dim, and 20th century electric candles are lit, Sharon Petrik and A Capella choir proceed to the stage while humming "Silent Night."

Whether it's Stage Band, Marching Band, or A Capella Choir, you can bet that Joe Kerner and Jim Carlisle are at the center of the action.



Although it is 7:15 in the morning, Alan Chon and Chris Cianciolo look as though it is opening night.

THE SOUNDS OF MUSIC

vocalists; and it is common to find members of one choir as members of one or two other groups.

If a Mayfield student desires to be a musician rather than sing, there are still numerous avenues open. Each year our orchestra is a major factor in the success of the musical play put on by our A Capella Choir and Mayfield Players. "Guys and Dolls" would not have been the same without our orchestra.

It seems that no matter what your desire as a musician, this school has something to offer you. We doubt that many high schools in our area have as talented a stage band as we. Whenever they took to the stage this year, every eye and ear in the house was theirs.

Of course, we still have Pep Band and our Wildcat Marching Band. Half the fun of attending most of our athletic contests is seeing these musicians involved in the outcome of each game.

Students of MHS involved in music are certainly those whom many of us envy. They have found a way to express joy that leaves the rest of us with our feet tapping and our hands clapping.

Before it ever gets to the stage, each song performed is rehearsed dozens of times. Karen Powalski, Teri Williamson, and Annette Petrof give a Christmas Carol one more try.

You can bet that Rob Shampay and Dave Rupnow would rather sit and play their tubas instead of carrying them.

OFFICERS OF MAYFIELD PLAYERS: Joe Kerner, Leslie Russo, Eric Delson, Amy Zimmer, and Quinton Flynn.

Before performing their skits, Barb Watson, Mary Lou Lajeunesse, Colleen Kretz, and Karen Kabat enjoy the pot-luck dinner.

Can you guess which one is the muppet? The furry guy on the left or the guy we call Chris Matlock?

We would like to remind the parents of Martha Booth and Brad Schreiber that these were just costumes.

NOT FAR OFF BROADWAY

"Lights! Action!" As those words are shouted and the curtain slowly rises, what does the audience see on the stage? Props, scenery, and cast members in costume and make-up. These things did not appear on the stage mysteriously. They were the product of the hard work of our own Mayfield Players. Weeks of rehearsals by the cast and student directors . . . and hours of laboring by crew members made all that stage magic possible.

Organizations like our Junior Class and A Cappella are the beneficiaries of the profits from our plays. Without these monies, new music and equipment for our choral department would never be purchased, and our Junior/Senior Prom would never be special. So . . . cast and crews, ushers and ticketsellers, directors and gofers . . . TAKE A BOW! The cheers are for all of you.

In costume or out, these people are entertaining.

The ride to the top for Marion Mooney, Annette Corio, and Mary Lou Lajeunesse will certainly not be as hectic as the trip down.

FLAKEY BEHAVIOR

While most of us were trying to fortify ourselves against the severe cold temperatures we experienced this winter, there were certain members of our school's population who actually looked forward to being out in that frozen wasteland. Yes, it's true, and if that wasn't enough, they would climb on board a bus with Mr. Santora and head south toward Boston Mills where there exists a machine that made any amount of snow that Mother Nature might have failed to supply.

These intrepid souls are the members of our Ski Club. For ten weeks, each Tuesday evening started with two slats being strapped to the bottom of their feet as Ski Club's members prepared to repeatedly descend the slopes at 30 to 40 miles per hour. In those few cases where the chill did get to be too much, our downhill racers spend some relaxing moments around the lodge's inviting fireplace.

Whether they were found on the lifts or by the hearths, our Ski Club members celebrated the rites of winter with enthusiasm.

Skiing is second nature to Mike Gatto. (Otherwise known as the Mogul Maniac.)

Thanks to cameraman Lucio Lombardo, our gymnastics team has a record of the record-shattering meet against Brush.

NO TIPPING PLEASE

As is the case with most service organizations, the members of Media Services, Key Club, and Bookstore are usually not noticed until we suddenly need their assistance. Each and every member of these organizations works out of a desire to be of help to others.

With more and more teachers and coaches relying on the media to instruct and evalute, the obligations and jobs to be performed by Media Services have steadily increased. Any and all equipment is not only delivered to the instructor but also picked up at the end of the day with no inconvenience to the teacher.

If you were to ask many students whether or not we should abolish the Key Club, they might say yes before they realized that the Key Club is chiefly responsible for taming those growling stomachs during basketball and wrestling matches. They hate to see anyone go hungry.

Possibly, the least recognized are our Bookstore aides. Because many of us associate what the bookstore sells with those things we like least about school, the girls go relatively un-noticed and unappreciated.

AN OPEN MIND

Reading, Riting, Rithmetic and More

There's at least one thing that all Mayfield students have in common: books. Whether they're being slowly compressed into the bottom of a locker, growing slightly moldy between the shoes under the bed, or becoming tattered through constant use; a student's books are a significant part of his academic experience. Mayfield has three libraries full of books - something for everyone. In addition, the school regularly presents its students with new text books. (The better to teach you with, my dear).

Academics at Mayfield also include other things: honors and advanced placement courses, field trips, guest speakers, films and videotapes. One would think even a student who never opens a book would learn through osmosis. Mayfield's academics possess the variety and quality which allow any student to reach his educational goals. His achievement is only a measure of his personal expectations.

Studying for finals are Joe Ferritto, Tom Forristell, Mike Capretta, and Brad Kowit.

BEYOND THE NORM

There are many kinds of students at Mayfield: a few in search of fame, others of fortune, and still others of an attractive member of the opposite sex. Some students choose to devote themselves to the pursuit of scholarly excellence. It is a common misconception that scholars spend all of their time with their books, but many of Mayfield's most devoted students are also among the most active.

The National Honor Society and our Excellence Program are designed to recognize those individuals who have successfully balanced their studies with participation, their academic achievement with social growth. Many other people could have accomplished as much; these people are the ones that did.

NOTE: For the first time in memory, our yearbook has gone to print before our Academic Challenge team had a chance to compete. We're betting that Suzanne Robertson, Scott Feudo, Robert Weisenbach, and Marc Matlock brought back the encyclopedias.

Applauding each other are the newly appointed NHS members.

No one was more deserving of Student of the Year honors than Bob Razzante and Margie Kerr.

The journey from the bleachers to center stage is a long one, but the looks on the faces of these graduating seniors show that it was worth the effort.

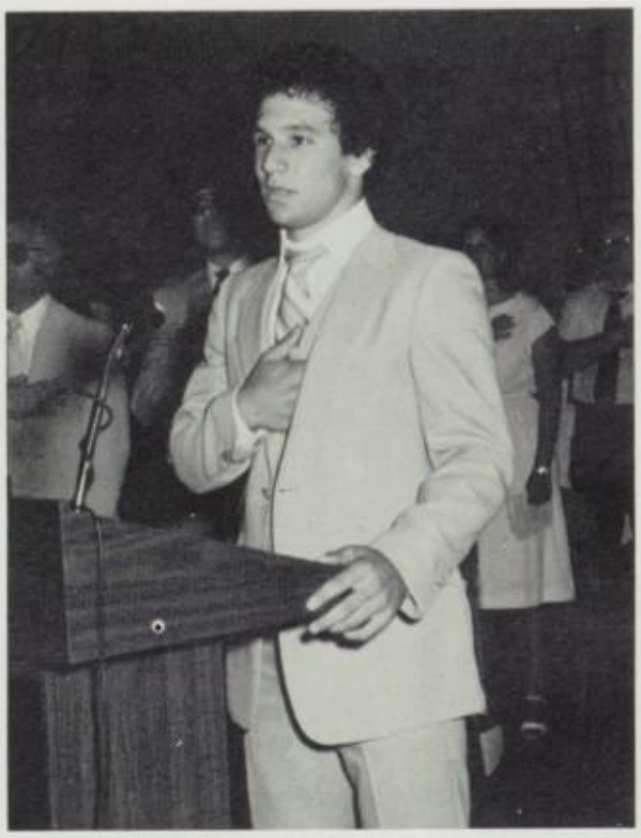
DAY 2343

Gallons of midnight oil were burned in the many hours before Honors Day, but something about caps and gowns made them nostalgic moments. The student body, faculty, and community gathered on Honors Day to pay tribute to our graduating seniors. Special recognition was given to our three National Merit finalists and to the outstanding scholars and leaders of the class.

The purpose of Honors Day, however, is not only to reward past effort and achievement, but also to encourage future endeavors. Many of the facts and figures that our seniors learned in this environment will be forgotten, but we hope that the feelings that were present that day will remain with them forever.



Taking over as Student Council President, Mike Lanese leads the staff and student body in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Holiday decorating, such as the poinsettia tree being displayed by Mr. Taylor, is only a small portion of the accomplishments of our green-thumbed horticulture students.

We may have had an Ugly Man Contest, but the real beauty was our V.I.C.A. Queen, Elena Fatica.

Computer wizardry is second nature to electronics students John Dome and Paul Lucas.

Precision is the key to being a draftsman. Ken Potosky checks over his drawing for any error that might have slipped by his original inspection.

COMING OUT OF THE SHADOWS

It might come as a surprise to many students, but one of our school's largest clubs goes relatively unnoticed. How often have you heard of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, otherwise known as V.I.C.A.? While V.I.C.A. might be an enigma to anyone who is not a vocational student, it has certainly made its presence known both locally and statewide.

Last fall, V.I.C.A.'s annual Ugly Man Contest raised $650 through student donations. The money was donated to the Society for Crippled Children. (There's nothing ugly about that.)

On a larger scale, Marco Orlando was elected statewide vice president for the Ohio chapter of V.I.C.A. Marco is the first vocational student from Mayfield to ever hold such a post. One of his main responsibilities is to perform the opening and closing ceremonies of V.I.C.A. before the members of the Ohio State Legislature.

In addition to Marco's accomplishments, our V.I.C.A. Queen, Elena Fatica, was 2nd runner up in the regional competition.

When it comes to success and pride in achievements, V.I.C.A. does not have to take a back seat to anyone.

ACCENT ON SKILLS

Everyone knows how difficult it is to choose from one of the 31 Baskin-Robbins' flavors. The moment you've decided on one, another flavor catches your fancy. Such is the case with our vocational program. Since 1972, fifteen diversified programs have been added to our curriculum. Choosing one to pursue is rarely an easy task.

Admission into one of these programs is never automatic. A student must not only show a genuine interest in the program, but he/she must also demonstrate an aptitude for success.

Eventually, all of the acquired training is put to use in skill olympics on both the regional and state levels where coming home with the awards has become a tradition for Mayfield students. Even if one of our students comes away from this competition empty-handed, the job market is usually waiting with open arms.

V.I.C.A. Vice President Marco Orlando is not only a politician, he's also a pretty good electrician.

STRIVING FOR THE GOLD

If there is one thing that separates high school athletics from college and professional sports, it is that of participating for the sheer joy of the contest. In a day when we are surrounded by numerous "Professional" athletes who merely appear to be going through the paces while collecting 6 and 7 digit salaries, high school athletics creates for us an excitement and thrill which makes us proud to be associated with our school.

Coaches, players, trainers, scorekeepers, timers, and managers all become part of a family that learns to either share equally in the triumph that comes with a G.C.C. crown or weather a series of losses that come from too little experience.

A professional team has to hire a Madison Avenue advertising firm to create a superficial and phony "Family" image that we all readily see through. At Mayfield, we don't have to pretend. Our closeness comes from a real concern for our teammates. We are a family united in desire and purpose. Win or lose, we are rewarded beyond measure and any monetary worth.

THE MAYFIELD .500

When a baseball player finishes the season with a .500 batting average, he is elected to the Hall-of-Fame; but when a team finishes at .500, it usually goes unnoticed. When teams finish at .500 two years in a row, the fans are usually after the coach's scalp. Well, for two years in a row our Wildcats have finished the season at .500 . . . so now you know why Mr. Santora is a little thin on top.

Even a .500 season is not without its thrills. Gary Sigman and Tom Newsome ended with impressive enough stats to attract the attention of college scouts. Frank Sidoris threw a coveted no-hitter against Cleveland's South. And we pushed the powerhouse Panthers of Euclid to the final inning before succumbing in the Sectional Tournament. If only the season was a bit longer . . .

When Mr. Santora takes his boys under the trees, it's usually for some serious talk.

Like the Indians, our varsity lacked the long-ball this season. Kathy Kaselonis was called up from the JV's to supply that punch.

This sure beats sliding into second. Lisa Wischmeyer and Marianne Insana get fewer bruises on this surface.

LIFE GOES ON

Did you ever wonder why females outlive males by an average of seven years? Maybe our softball team offers a clue to this puzzling phenomenon.

Imagine, if you will, our baseball team finishing the season at 1-14. Half of the team would have been admitted to Hillcrest Hospital with bleeding ulcers; while the others would hide from the torments of our hallways.

Well - our girls finished their season at 1 and 14, and neither of the above mentioned results occurred. We do not mean to imply that the softball team didn't care. In point of fact, they probably care as much as the boys do. And we're certain that they try just as hard. The difference is that females have learned to put sports in perspective. They have come to the realization that games are NOT a "life and death" situation. So they play, try their best, have fun, and live on.

LEAPING FOR RECORDS

It is a little known fact that no human being can leap and remain airborne for more than one second. That seemed rather hard to believe when our high and long jumpers remained aloft until school records fell at their feet. Both Jim Shields and Pat Lyons soared over the 6'5" barrier. (That is comparable to jumping over one Mr. Mell or two Mr. Todts.) Also leaping to new heights was long-jumper John Rowles who pushed the school record by stretching out to 21'8¼".

The success of our leapers inspired the whole team to new heights as our Wildcats broke more winners' tapes than ever before. A 5-3 record may not sound that impressive, but our meets have generated new interest and enthusiasm. If this keeps up, APATHY may never again leave the starting blocks at a Mayfield track meet.

Flying toward a 49.9 clocking in the 400 meter dash, Dennis Stosel leaves opponents in the distance.

Not to be denied the lead, Dan Kaveney fights for first in the GCC meet.

With legs as long as John Browngardt's, it is easier to put on his spikes sitting down.

Our opponents found it difficult to catch high-stepping hurdler Anthony Messina.

VARSITY TEAM MEMBERS:

BURNED AGAIN

In order to cook up a winning track team, you need the right combination of ingredients. First, add a "dash" of Kilbane, DelVillan, Swope, and Hawkins. Blend in healthy portions of Latnik, Brady, Curran, and DeFranco for nutrition. Then add a touch of French Lajeunesse for seasoning. Be sure that it doesn't Burn (s). Mix these all together, and you end up with a delicacy that sets seven school records. Even with this award-winning recipe; however, our hopes for a winning season soured after our Willoughby South victory. The missing ingredient never materialized.

Luckily Cathy Brady is running the anchor leg of this distance relay, or the situation would be hopeless. The flawless exchange from Stacey Curran helped Cathy on her way.

Back Row: Jolene Liuzzo, Suzanne DeFranco, Carol Wayman, Mary Jo Tryby, Annette Corio, Mary Lou Lajeunesse, Julie Burns, Karen Powalski, Joanne Coffey, Pam Greenwald, Jeanette Ehrbar, Phoebe Thorpe, and Stacey Curran.

Rest and relaxation are vital during any track meet. A little socializing doesn't hurt.

We can't help but admire the tenacity of Scott Feudo's defensive play.

WINNING IS A RACQUET

Over the last six years, whenever the topic in GCC sports gets around to tennis, Mayfield High School is a name synonymous with champions. We didn't get that reputation due to a good public relations campaign, but we earned it with a 34-2 conference dual meet record over that span. No other teams in our school can boast of ongoing success as the tennis team can.

Last year was the first time since 1975 that we were not in first place in our conference. While the Brush Arcs barely squeezed by us to close the championship door in our faces, you can bet that seniors Dave Watson and Scott Feudo will be at the nets with their teammates to prevent any such encore performance.

Coach Rash can't help but be pleased with the possibilities that this year's squad possesses. Not only do Dave Watson and Scott Feudo bring along impressive statistics; but Gregg Adzema, Larry Bern, Denny Rash, Mike Schwartz, and Rob Shulman all have the additional potential to bring the GCC crown back to the court of the Cats.

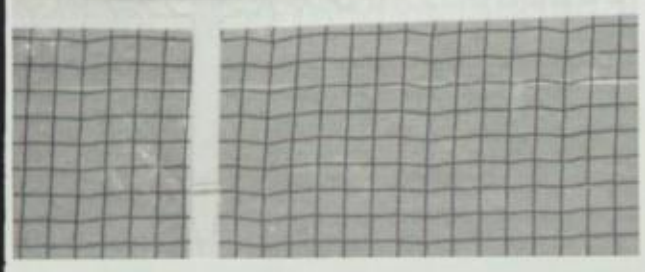
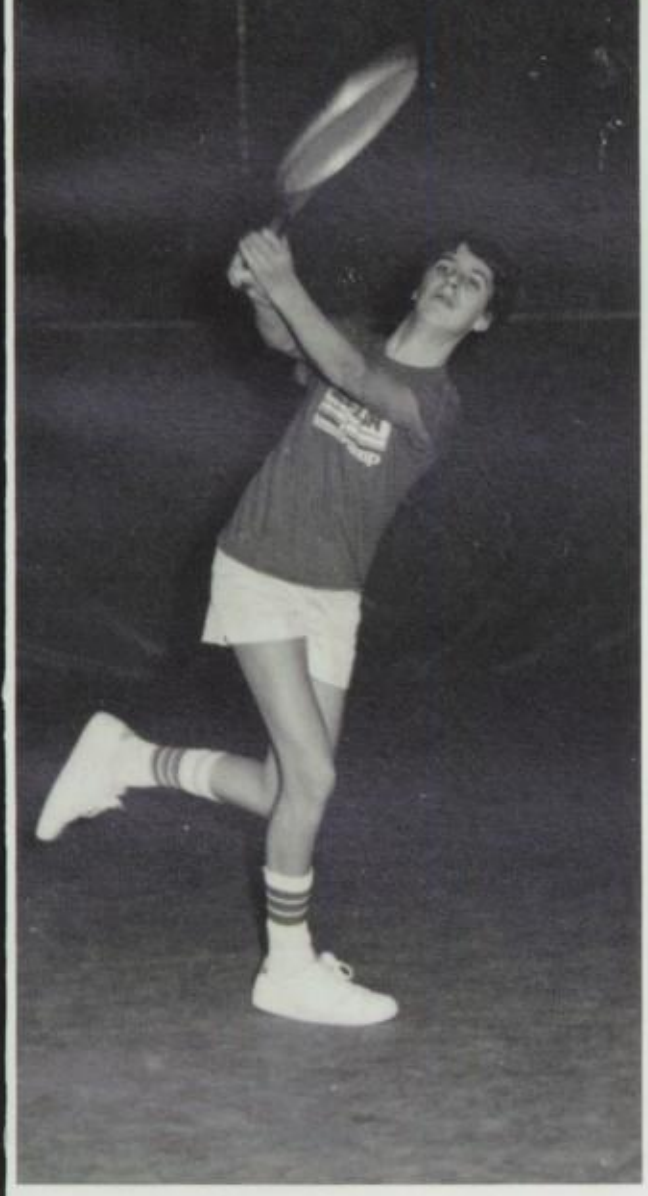
While he may be practicing indoors at the racquet club, Ed Weber still finds himself bothered by pesky winter mosquitoes.





Winners usually jump over the net to congratulate their opponents. Dave Watson gets a lot of practice.

To a beginner, backhands are difficult to learn. Larry Bern gives us novices a quick lesson.

Counseling is part of coaching. Mr. Booth calms Jake Fornaro on the sideline during a tense moment in the Maple game.

On the way to putting out the Arcs' lights 28-0, quarterback Sam Mercurio lunges for a first down.

Loose muscles make for a tight defense as demonstrated by MAD-DOGGERS Pat Leistiko and Jake Fornaro.

"WE BELIEVE"

No sooner had the excitement of our basketball championship died down, when our football team charged through the jaws of our wooden wildcat to take the GCC, as well as the entire Cleveland area, by surprise.

We opened the season with two quick wins; but in our third game against Garfield Hts., we marched up and down the field but couldn't get the ball in the end zone. In the past a loss like that would have spelled another season of one excuse after another for losing, but this year things were different. A week later we bounced back to shred the South Rebels 32-14. That victory over South gave us the proof we needed. "We believed in ourselves! We believed in our teammates! We were the Mayfield Wildcats and we were not to be caged."

Opposing defenses tried to de-claw our offense, but HOGS lademarco, Fornaro, Ridinger, Bryll, and Long kept opening the path for ALL-STATE halfback Mike Lanese as he slipped and snaked for a new school record of 1,417 yards. While our offense was steamrolling to a season total of 177 points, our MAD-DOGS were holding all but two teams to 6 points or less.

adversity is usually a gage to its internal fortitude. We proved our mettle against both Mentor and Maple Heights. While Gedeon, Leistiko, Leddy and friends were limiting the Cardinals to only 8 running plays in the second half, our offense dominated every statistic but the final score.

The real test came in the waning moments against Maple when Pat Leistiko pounced on a fumble that enabled Mike Lanese to preserve the tie for the GCC crown. That busride home was pure ecstasy.

It will be a long time before the joy of this season wears off. Alumni, students, and the entire community all fought for bragging rights when it came to talking about "OUR TEAM." We were, and are, the champions.

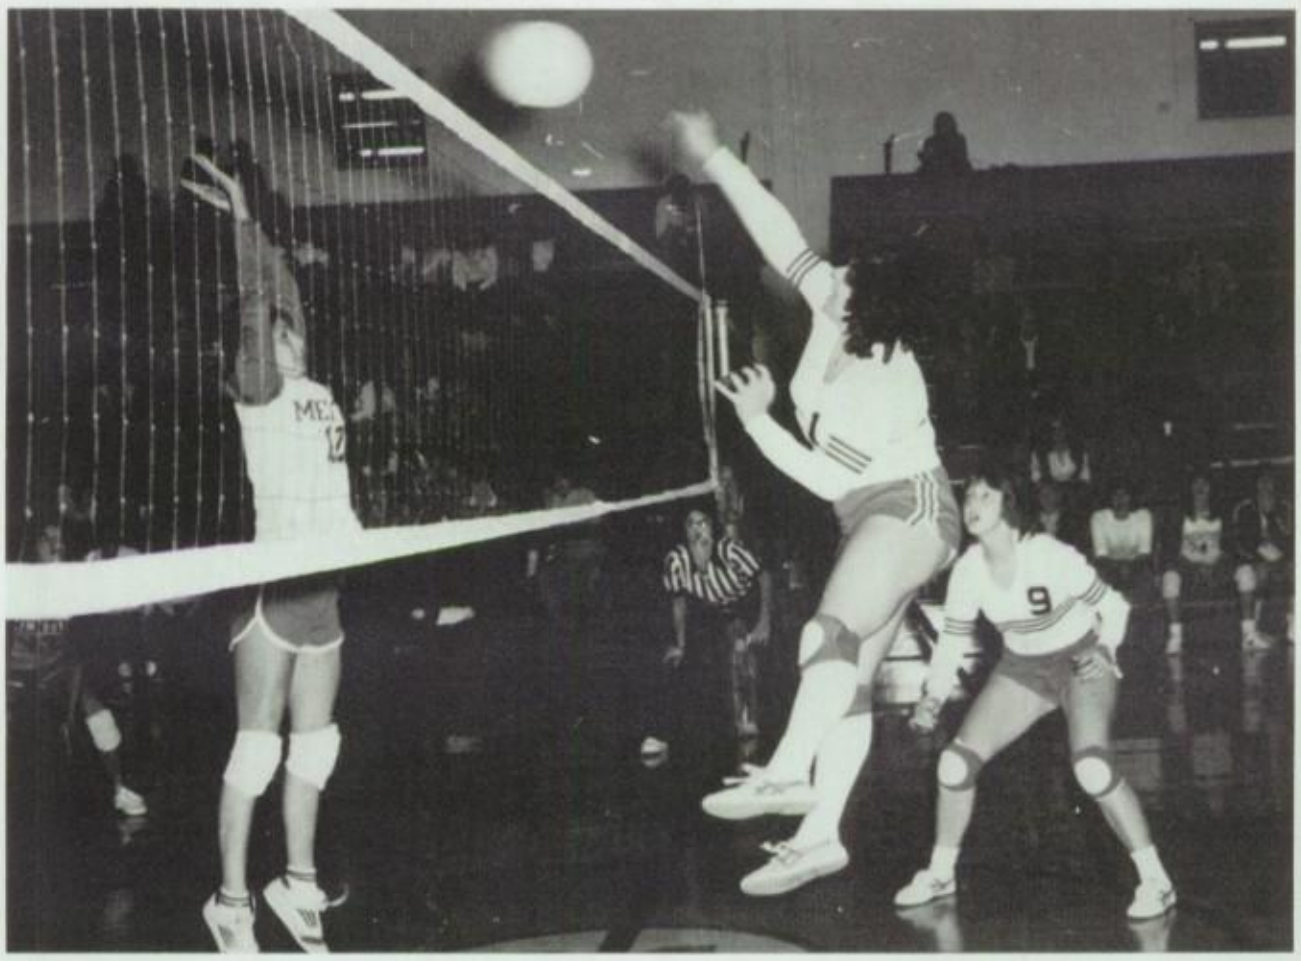
BUMPED AGAIN!

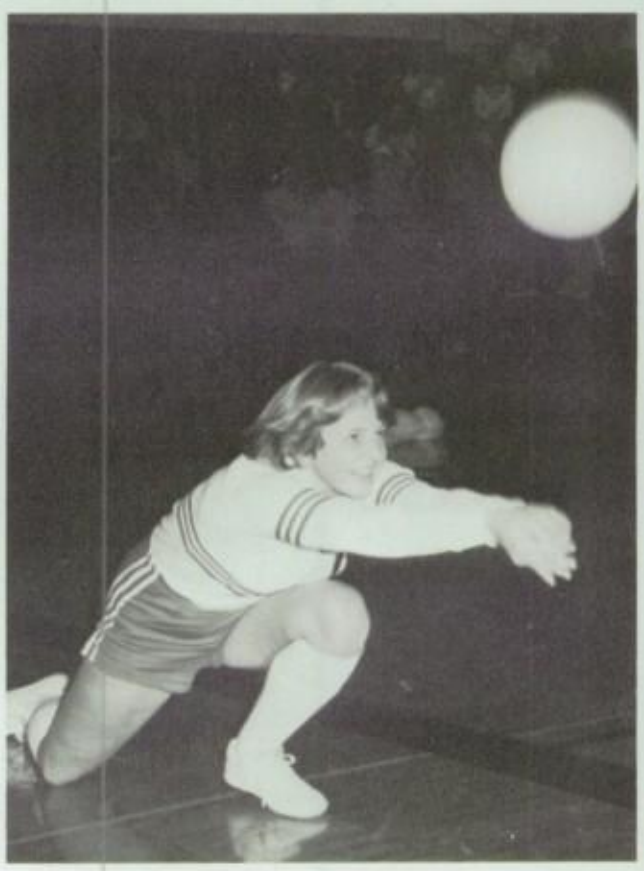
"Oh no, not another new coach!" Little did we know that our initial doubts quickly gave way to both respect and appreciation. Rookie coach Hlavacek proved to be a winner; and more importantly, taught us that we could be the same.

"Oh shucks!" Just as we started to believe that nothing could stop us, Lisa Wischmeyer tore up her knee. With Lisa "bumped" from the starting lineup, it was up to seniors Sharon Lung, Mary Ann DelVillan, and Ramona Schneider to keep up the momentum.

"Yippee!" What an improvement over last year. Our 15-7 record was one of our best ever. All this team needed was a Homecoming Queen to make its "net" accomplishments even greater.

NOTE TO MR. BEACH: Is there a faster-moving, more exciting sport than volleyball? Wouldn't boys' volleyball be a dynamic addition to our program? Can't you just see the standing-room, rowdy crowds attending boy-girl doubleheaders? Does California always have to start new trends?





Mentor comes up "pointless" as Laura Maniglia drives home a spike, while teammate Teri Williamson backs her up.

UNABLE TO KICK OLD HABITS

Trying to show a net profit and improving over last year's record of only 2 wins in 18 outings were the two main goals of Coach Peck's booters as they took to the field this fall.

The season opened slowly and with little progress, but in the third game our offense shot holes in Nordonia's defense by scoring 7 unanswered goals. Unfortunately, we didn't play Nordonia every week.

While managing ties against strong opponents such as Brush and North, (North had defeated us 19 consecutive times), the season took a downward roll as injuries to key players held the Wildcats to only one more win the entire season.

TOWARD THE CHUTES

This was to be OUR year. Sadar, Turner, Lajeunesse, and our other talented seniors were returning to the Metroparks Turf . . . and coming out of the woods to join them was super-soph Chris Tidball. The fans were expected to flock to the loop to cheer on our spikers. What happened? The fans never materialized. If more than our usual eight fans had shown for the pivotal Mentor meet, we might have run away with that GCC crown.

While our boys cross country team was in the run for the roses, Cathy Brady was busy leading our lady harriers through a rather frustrating 2-3 season. The entire season was not an uphill race; however, as Cathy, Amy Gulaian, Stacey Curran and teammates sprinted to a 3rd place finish in the GCC meet.

ONE OVER PAR

For the past few years it has been "par" for the course for our golfers to be the GCC champions, but this season we had to settle for the runner-up slot. Those Cardinals from Mentor out-birdied us.

We're not about to apologize for our successful 9-3-2 record. Dave Watson and Brad Burns may not resemble Jack Nicklaus at this stage of their careers, but they are good enough to be medalists on most teams in this state. With a little more experience we'll shoot down those birds from the Mentor area next year.

LOVE IT ANYWAY

When Super-Brat McEnroe loses, he immediately starts looking for excuses and scapegoats. Maybe John could learn some valuable lessons in maturity from the girls on our tennis team. They dislike losing as much as he does, but wouldn't think of pointing fingers at anyone except themselves. Talk about CLASS. (John never learned the first two letters of that word.)

Leading this team by their example were Barb Oliver and Colleen Kretz. MVP Kretz managed to advance to districts. As leaders, both were ALL-STATE.

KARDIAC KIDS

When one considers the outstanding records of our athletic teams since school began last September, it is surprising that most students have not come up with chronic hoarseness. We all knew that our football, wrestling, and gymnastics teams would be tough to beat; but our basketball team was expected to be immersed in one of those "rebuilding" years.

You would have been hard pressed last November to find one sportswriter who would have predicted our Wildcat roundballers to finish above the .500 mark, let alone finishing in the top ten again in the rankings for all of Cuyahoga County. Few thought that this year's squad had anywhere near the shooting ability and team play that carried us to the GCC Championship last year. Observers could hardly be faulted for those predictions considering the fact that Joe Kerner was the only returning starter from last year's team.

A SEASON BEGUN IN 3rd GRADE

What the pollsters don't ever take into consideration when evaluating our team, is that we possess a seemingly endless supply of Coach Steadman. Chris Keshock, Jeff Thomas, and Mike Rowe spent most of last season riding the pine, yet when they were called to take the tipoff, Coach Steadman soon had them playing as though they had always been together. Biddy Basketball does pay off.

Since this has been the year of sophomore standouts like Turcotte, Bolek, Mercurio, Murray, and Fiorenza, Coach Steadman called on sophomore-center Mike Drop to round out his top five. The end result was a team record of 18-4 and a tie with Mentor for second place in the GCC.

When it came to scoring, we had "old faithful" Joe Kerner as well as the hot shooting of guards, Jeff Thomas and Mike Rowe. The big surprise had to be the consistent accuracy of Chris Keshock as he led our conference with his 20.6 pts/game average. On defense, the entire starting five was as tenacious as any team in memory.

Pressure from a Bedford defender comes a moment too late as Jennfier Sadar adds another 2 points.

COURTING SUCCESS

Our girls' varsity basketball team would be the first to agree that success in any program is never instantaneous. This year's 7-11 record was a definite improvement over last year's pointless 4-15 showing, but we still need to make greater strides down the court if we are going to be totally competitive. A big step toward improvement was taken this year with the addition of Coach Hlavacek. Her court expertise is what our program has needed for a number of years. The next step should be to install backboards in the driveways of each team members. Miss Hlavacek knows from this year that the talent is there, but the team needs PRACTICE, PRACTICE, PRACTICE.

As has always been the case, our girls gave each game their best shot. We have had few girls in the history of our program who displayed the tenacity and hustle of Jennifer Sadar and Michelle Blanc. They were team leaders in every sense of the word.

This program is headed in the right direction. All we need are more girls who realize that breaking into a sweat does not signify the loss of femininity.

PIN 'EM CHAMPS!

For years we have had a reputation for putting out good wrestlers. In any given year we had 1 or 2 matmen who were highly regarded in their weight classes. The problem was that those few usually had to carry the entire team. This year was an entirely different story as the team compiled a 13-0 dual meet records and finished the season rated 2nd in the whole Cleveland area behind nationally known St. Edward's. (That #2 rating is the highest a Mayfield athletic team has ever been rated.)

Each of this year's starting wrestlers possessed winning records. This team carried itself. They didn't accumulate their successes by pinning weak sisters. Lake Catholic and Nordonia had dominated us on several previous occasions; although both had impressive wrestling reputations, they fell before the systematic takedowns of our wrestlers.

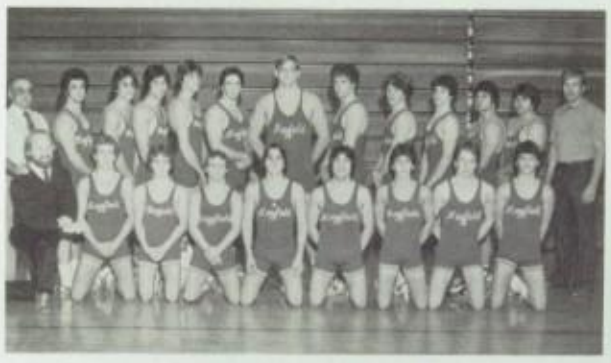
Cradles are not for babies. Todd Khas put one on his helpless opponent.



VARSITY CHAMPS: Front Row: Coach Dasher, Ray Paulin, Jay Rizzo (9-2-1), Don Thomas (12-1), Tony Auletta (9-2-1), Sal Charillo (11-2), Drew Fiorenza (12-1), Cliff Kinzig (7-2-3), and Marcco Gambatese. Top Row: Coach Toncar, John Zagara, Marco Orlando, Nick Yacabucci (8-4), Todd Khas (10-2), Greg Weaver (6-7), Mike Long (8-5), Chris Young (8-4-1), Wayne Impulitti (13-0), Kevin Bossard, Joe Burrello (9-3), Nick Cirino, and Coach Cikach.

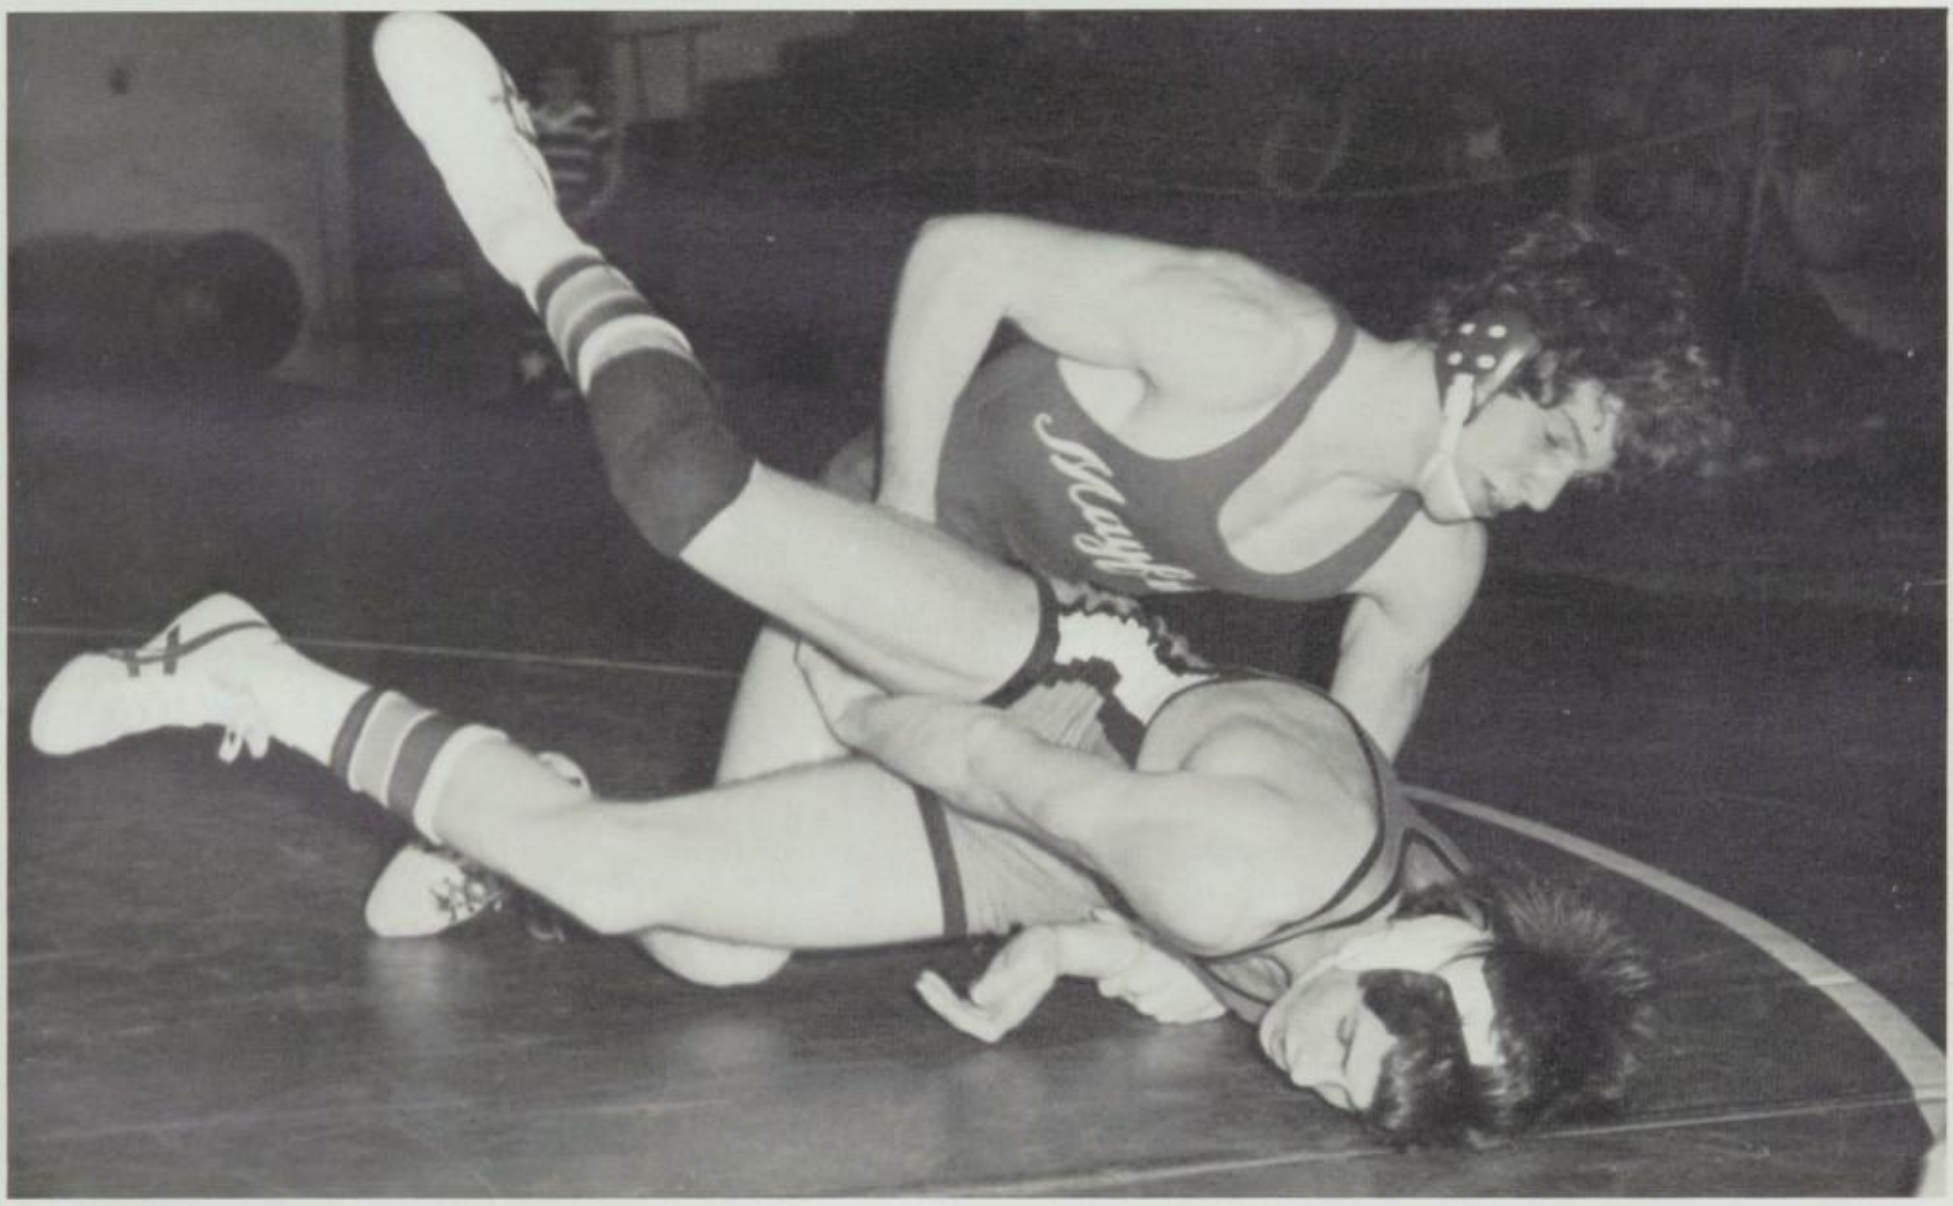
GCC CHAMPS!

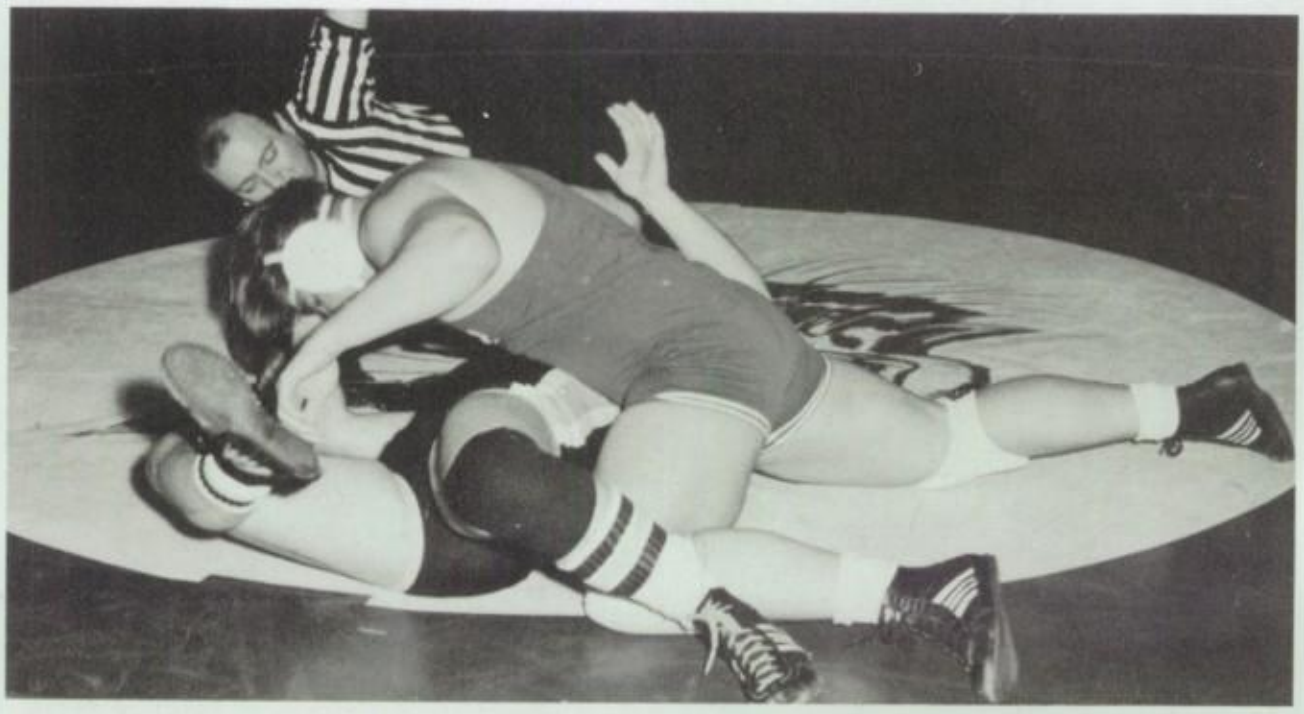
Drew Fiorenza is a real pain in the neck for this Riverside Beaver.

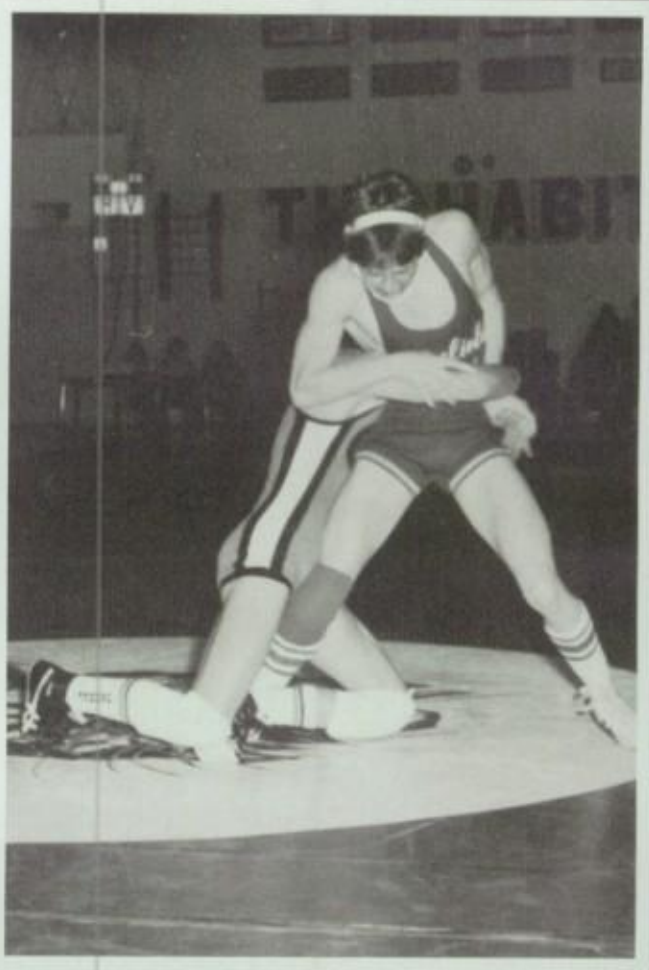
Totally controlling the match, Wayne Impullitti puts moves on his opponent at will. (It was a let-down when Wayne didn't hit 20 points in his matches.)



Sometimes, escape seems impossible, but not for Cliff Kinzig.

Pin! A perfect dual meet season comes to a perfect end with Mike Long's pin of the Riverside heavyweight.





BRING ON ED'S

Of course, there was also the highly-touted showdown with the Mentor Cardinals. The Cardinals entered their gymnasium undefeated but barely escaped with their feathers intact. The GCC crown wound up in the Cat's den instead of a bird cage.

All this progress has not occured overnight or by accident. It is due totally to the coaching of Mr. Frank Cikach. Since his arrival three years ago, he has taught the fundamentals to his wrestlers with one idea in mind: give up the escape and go for the takedown. (2 for 1) This philosophy is so deeply engrained into our grapplers that the scores they compiled against individual opponents were some of the highest we can ever remember.

Months of hard work paid off with the attainment of the coveted GCC crown. We won our last championship 17 years ago as a member of the old Freeway Conference. Further tribute was paid to our team when Coach Cikach was named the Coach of the Year in the GCC, Wayne Impullitti and Drew Fiorenza were named to the First-Team All-GCC team, and 8 of our matmen were placed on the second team.

In seeing Joe Burrello manhandle his opponent, it is hard to believe he could ever lose.

Twisting, Turning, Grunting, and Groaning are only a few of the sights and sounds of a Don Thomas wrestling match.

PERFECT TENS

If you mention a perfect 10 in regards to our gymnastics team, you would be talking about not only the mark of perfection for an individual performance, but also, the team's mark in going undefeated this season. That is another "first" that we can all share in. (Unfortunately the GCC does not have a crown for gymnasts.) In order to reach that perfect 10, there were countless hours spent in the 11-12 gym working to improve routines on the beam, vault, uneven bars, and in floor exercises. The only team that even came close to defeating us was our antagonist, Brush. (In our opinion, this breath-taking win was the highlight of Mayfield's banner year in sports. Witnessing Miss Greenes prod her team toward perfection was an emotional experience that few will forget.)

As has been the case for the last two years, the gymnasts were led the ever-improving Gayle Bloek. It seems that Gayle's nearly-flawless performances spurs her teammates toward levels of competition they have never before achieved. Being chosen the best "All Around" gymnast at Sectionals was only one of the post season honors bestowed upon Gayle.

Naturally, there were others who contributed greatly to the teams' success. Bonnie McCulloch, Linda Eisenmann, Lisa Triefler, and Jackie Wynn continually improved on past performances.

In a year packed with the successes of our athletic teams, the gymnastics team helped to bring home their share of the winners' laurels. This team ranks second to none.

Can you imagine doing what Linda Eisemann is doing on a piece of wood that is only 4" wide and 4' off the ground?

The memories of an undefeated season last forever.

Top Row: Coach Huelsman, Kurt Miller, Tony Stopek, Peter Gall, Lou Morales, Jason Turcotte, Steve Jenson, Chuck DePenti, Chuck Linderman, and Paul Klich.

SWIMMERS ANONYMOUS

While much attention was focused this past winter on our successful gymnastics, basketball, and wrestling teams, we conveniently overlooked two teams that have caused a splash on their own - our swim teams. The accomplishments of our swim teams often do go un-noticed because they have to travel to their own home meets, and few know where the Ursuline pool is.

Our varsity boys' team was led by Jason Turcotte, the sophomore sensation of Cuyahoga County. Jason stroked, slashed, and kicked his way to five school records. Jason was chosen a Press-Star for his many accomplishments as well as being selected from a field of 100 participants as the MVS at the Gilmour Invitational.

Outside of Jason's records, our boys did show encouraging improvements as many personal bests were lowered. The same could be said for our girls. For the time time in years, the GCC powerhouses were concerned about facing us. Sharon Lung and Debbie Goldstein pushed both opponents and teammates to their limits.

Victory and cheers go hand in hand. Kathy Galinac, Jason Turcotte, Lou Morales, and Dean Holtz celebrate a relay victory.

Just bouncing around is our diving team: Steve Rothenberg, Kathy Galinac, Vince LaMaida, Amy Hehr, and Mike Sylvester.

Miss Greenes measures up to anyone's standards.

All doubts are finally settled. Nancy Thorpe does possess more "hot air" than Todd Begun as the bubbles clearly show.

There is only one way to wait for a ride and have the time pass quickly. Do it with friends like Lisa Winteregg, Lisa Bauer, Allison Dowe, and Peggy Gaspar.

Afterschool activities like cross country cannot be staged without the help and involvement of people like Mary Lou Lajeunesse and Carolyn Page.

MAKING IT ALL WORTHWHILE

Have you ever been in this building when it's empty? It's a very large, very impressive cold structure. It certainly isn't a school. What gives it life and makes it a school is people. You and me and them.

We are all in this together. Without others there would be no sharing, no growth - and no memories. We would become as sterile as the empty building.

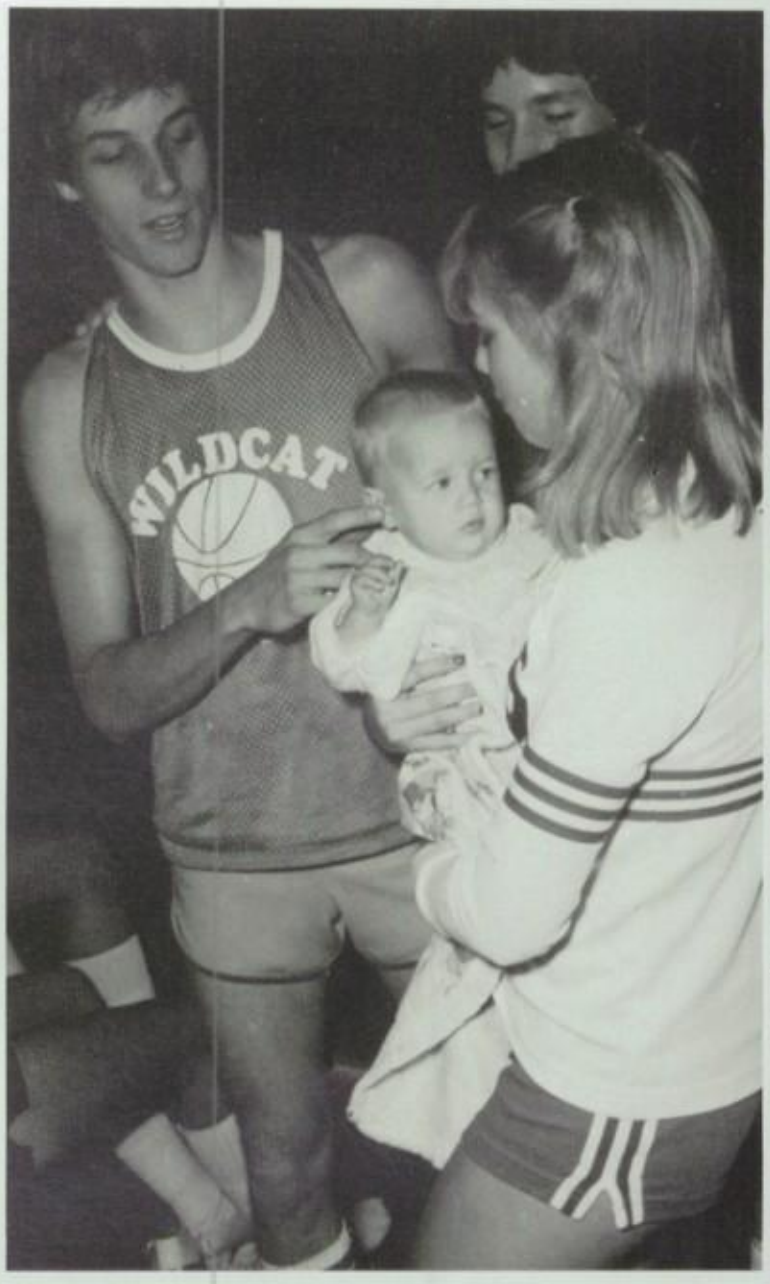
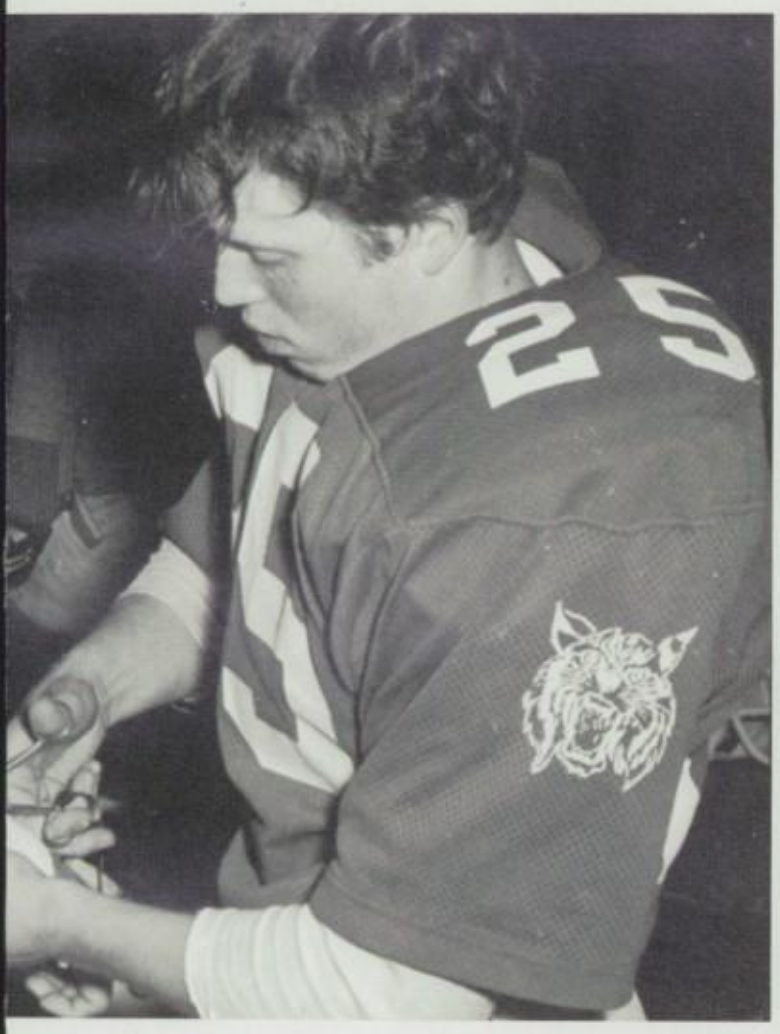
Even young fans appreciate the athletic skills of Jeff Thomas and Mary Ann DelVillan. (Especially their diaper skills.)



Hey, guys, Mr. Todt is just about this high. P.S. We would like to commend Mr. Todt for putting up with all of our teasing. It takes a "big" man to handle it as well as he has.

The finished product is already focused in Jackie Olexa's mind. Talent is getting what is in your mind down on the canvas for others to appreciate.

Defensive backs Pat Leddy and Scott Williamson help each other off the field as well as on.



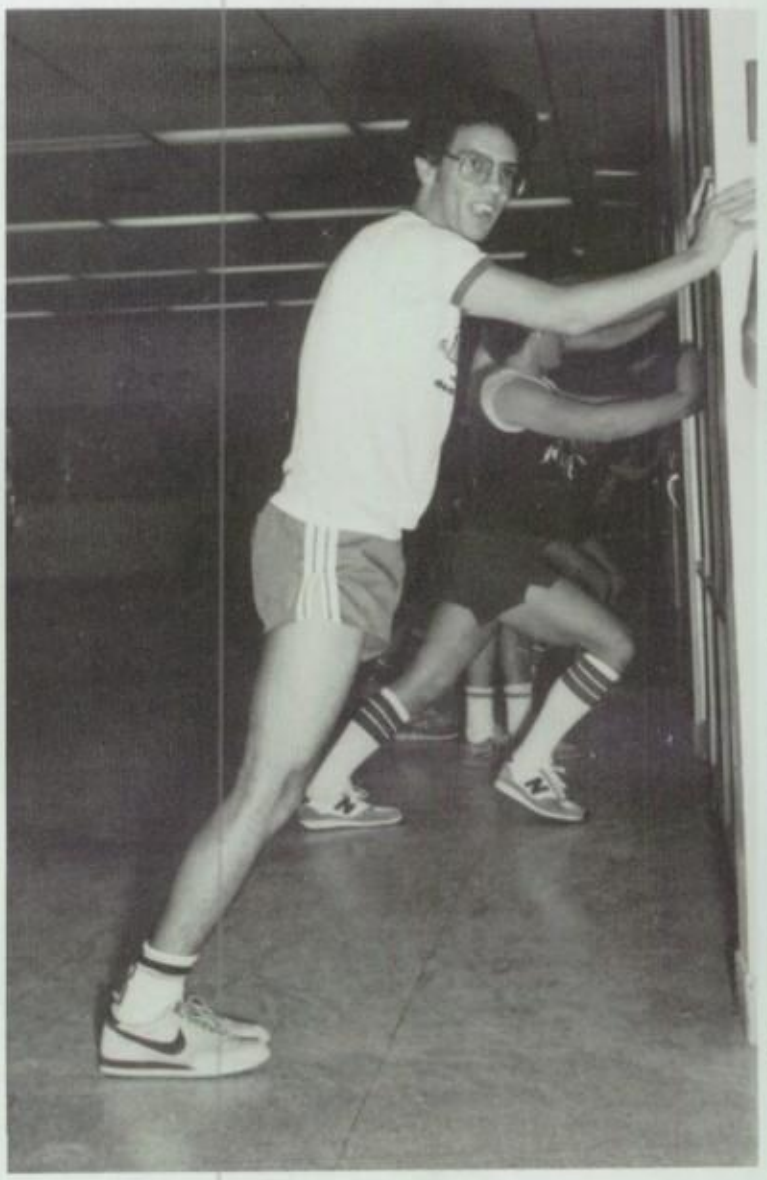
Once Mitch Opalich, Mike Austin, Bob Snyder, and Paul Brown started to cheer for our girls' basketball team, we almost pulled out a win against Mentor. There must be a lesson in this somewhere.

When the coach asked Norah Popik to spring into action, she received a boost from her friend, Bugs Bunny.

SENIORS

Like cigarette packs, the Surgeon General should stamp our hallways with the warning sign - "WARNING, these hallways are hazardous to your health." Even skinny guys like Clark Turner either try to run you over or push down our walls.

How does John Browngardt do it? No one eats more sweets than he does and his waistline remains a svelte 24".



If all high jumpers could be assured of a kiss from Jim Shield's sister, Cheri, they might all break school records.

Pete Franklin - watch out! The "Doctor," Dave Orloff, is after your job. Dave is planning on jumping from morning announcements to prime time at WWWE.

After having destroyed the Tidy Bowl man, John Finucan celebrates his victory.

Over four years at Mayfield, few students have contributed as much as Doreen Delsanter. Decoration committees couldn't have gotten along without her.

BOYCOTT Libyan oil! BAN anything Iranian! BOYCOTT that South African Rugby Team! BAN nuclear weapons! BOYCOTT cafeteria lunches! Yes, even lunches managed to find their way onto a list of things to be boycotted in 1981.

In October, many upperclassmen, concerned over the rising prices of both hot and cold lunches, decided to inform the administration of their displeasure and concern by staging a boycott. The boycott asked that students bring in their own lunches rather than pay the high prices which they felt were unfair. For a few days the boycott did have some economic impact. Fewer lunches were sold. Prepared food spoiled or went stale. However, like most boycotts, this one fizzled. (Our soybean hamburgers started looking like gourmet delicacies compared to those baloney sandwiches from home.)

It might be stated that the boycott supplied our administrators with some "food for thought." In December, it was decided that a salad bar would be added to our 11-12 cafeteria. Maybe someone is listening?

If you have never seen or heard our Pep Band in action, you can probably get a good idea of their many talents and personalities by watching Animal and Floyd on "The Muppet Show." If there ever existed a group that exhibited the same kind of exhuberance and energy as Doctor Teeth and "The Electric Mayhem," it has to be our Pep Band. Pep doesn't seem to adequately describe the enthusiasm our musicians inject into their performances at basketball games. Foot stompin' and hand clappin' music were never in short supply once the Pep Band took over the stands. Much of the success of our basketball team must be directly attributed to the pep instigated by Eric Delson, Jim Costabile, Jim Carlise, Ken Tilly, Linda Eisenmann, Jeff Lefkovitz, Rob Jay, Chuck Kerr, and Todd Angelo. They certainly left us calling for encores.

For years, anyone who wished to help out an athletic team without actually participating was usually relegated to the positions of manager, water-boy, or "gofer." All of these positions were filled by 5'1" males who spent a great deal of time cleaning spikes, washing filthy towels, and lugging water buckets to and fro. Those days are long gone.

Enter the STUDENT TRAINER. This position is now filled by females as well as males whose common purpose is to prevent injuries from ever happening. Many summer hours are spent in the Cleveland Clinic classrooms learning such topics as human physiology, stretching exercises, care and usage of equipment, and proper taping techniques. The end result is not an M.D., but a trained coaches' assistant who keeps athletes on their feet instead of on the bench.

Thanks to the time and interest of Mr. Booth, our squad has risen in numbers each year. This year, Jennifer Sadar, Paul Hargis, Lori LaGatta, Laura DiSanto, and Lorraine Zimmer performed these services for all of our sports. Members of this group do not pass themselves off as medical experts, but they do possess the same dedication and devotion to their patients as you would expect from someone in the medical profession. Hopefully, like some of their predecessors, some from this squad will continue their preventive medicine career in college and become trainers for professional sports' teams in the Cleveland area.

Q: What's more mind-boggling than Chemistry homework? What's more humbling than having an older sibling with a 4.78 average? What's more frustrating than waiting for that special someone to call?

A. A Rubik's cube.

True frustration comes from attempting to find just one solution out of the 5 trillion-plus possible combinations. (Admit it - Most of you were thrilled to get one side right.) Each of us spent more hours than we would care to admit experimenting (FIDDLING) with that infernal piece of swiveling plastic. And how many of us had the experience of sitting across from some smirking whiz kid who flashed through all six colors in 26 seconds? None of these geniuses claimed to have read any of the solution books, of course. We tried, but never got beyond page three. (Are you sure those books are not written in Hungarian?)

Life finds many ways to make us feel like dummies. Did we really need one more reminder? Out of sheer desperation, most of us ended up taking that sucker apart, or peeled off the colors and replaced them in the right combinations, or simply bribed that whiz kid to let us in on his secret. Then, after many practice runs, we proceeded to sit across from some poor unsuspecting rookie and dazzled him with our own "genius." And, yes, we SMIRKED.

We hear so much about cancer in this country that most people are surprised when told that heart disease is still the number one killer. At one time or another, most of us will be affected by this terrible killer in one way or another. Because it often catches its victims by surprise it is necessary that all of us be prepared to help those stricken with heart seizures, whether they are relatives or total strangers.

The C.P.R. training that we receive from health instructors Miss Hlavacek, Miss Greenes, and Mr. Booth goes a long way toward preparing us to quickly come to someone's assistance. Certification from the American Heart Association or the Red Cross is only received after extensive practice with a partner as well as going solo. Many of us felt that practicing on "Annie" was either gross or humorous, but that "kiss of life" might be needed on our lips some day in the future.

Our annual United Way campaign took place during the month of October. Over a period of eight days we raised a total of $2000. That amount far surpassed the $987 that we collected in the fall of 1980. The most generous homeroom at each grade level was soon rewarded with Baskin-Robbins' sundaes. Our leading homerooms, Mr. Popelka's 9-8, Mr. Santora's 10-12, Mrs. Puin's 11-1, and Mr. Roth's 12-10, managed to consume 12 gallons of ice-cream topped with 8 pints of chocolate syrup.

The money we donated is used by United Way to aid numerous social agencies throughout the greater-Cleveland area. We certainly can be proud of the fact that we increased our donations by 100% over the previous year. It's an even greater feeling knowing that we've helped many people.

Open Letter to Mr. Treu:

Don't give up your idea for the "Dance Marathon." Most yearly traditions in this school went through years of revisions before being perfected. We feel this applies to your creative idea for a Marathon. The idea was a good one, but obviously it needs some revisions if it ever is to become a tradition. May we offer some suggestions?

#1: Do not schedule this event after a football game. Trying to compete with the McDonald's scene is a losing proposition after a football game.

#2: Take a good look at the picture of Todd Angelo on these pages. That was snapped at 2 a.m. Todd had his pillow out already, but the dance was scheduled to last for 21 more hours. Todd didn't make it. (Maybe a maximum of eight hours would be more realistic.)

#3: Forget the "Tommy Dorsey" type of band. When potential participants peeked into the gym and saw that 1940's band, they headed for McDonalds.

#4: Have the Marathon in the 9-10 cafeteria. The acoustics in that gym are impossible.

#5: Have your band members plan next year's event - not their parents.

#6: Publicize the event! Only a half-hearted attempt was made this year.

We honestly hope that your idea doesn't go by the wayside as many others have. Some of the pictures on this spread captured the enthusiasm, energy, and potential for future marathons. Unfortunately, the pictures also captured practically all those who participated this year. Next year will be different.

By tradition, students throughout history have brought apples to school for their teachers. In the last few years the Mayfield Board of Education has decided to also get into the apple-giving business. When these APPLES were delivered, they were slightly less than a dozen in number but capable of bushelsful of work.

Since their arrival, the 11 APPLES have contributed to the involvement of computers in almost every facet of our life here at Mayfield. Whether they are being used as instructional equipment for our eight Computer I and four Computer II classes; determining weekly athletic eligibility; or keeping inventory of band and football uniforms, our computers have shown their versatility.

Remember that if you wish to polish your APPLE skills - Hunt, Smith, and Glove are usually open for business.
P.S. Our GLOVE is the best APPLE polisher in the computer business.

Ask Mom if you can look through her high school yearbook. See if you can find any pictures of Mom in gym class. We're betting that you won't find any. Why? In those days, taking a picture of a young woman in her bloomers was not considered to be in "good taste." BLOOMERS? Yes, that's what your mom probably wore to gym. The only people who were allowed to witness female gym classes were other females. The ideas of having a male teacher; sharing classes with boys; and wearing "only" T-shirts and shorts would have sent your mother's generation into apoplexy.

Mom's electives in gym were probably as varied as our are. But soccer and football were definitely considered to be "unfeminine." Those activities were taboo for young women. Even M.D's admonished young women from engaging in such strenuous activities. They preached that girls weren't "strong enough" to play full-court basketball, and that they weren't "built for" such things as football and soccer.

Can you imagine what they would have said about girls pushing weights on a Nautilus? Don't you wonder what our daughters will be doing in their gym classes in the year 2010?

Freshmen are often described as "teens without wheels." Without those wheels their social life is limited to say the least. Even with wheels, there are precious few options for Saturday nights. Eliminate the Coliseum, the theaters, and bowling alleys, and what are you left with? Thank goodness for McDonalds and the people who run that establishment. Whether you're a freshman or senior, jock or burn-out, brain or bum - all are welcome at McDonalds. Cliques do not exist in this establishment. Grade levels are forgotten. Everyone here enjoys each other.

All of this would not be possible without the cooperation and encouragement of Mr. Philiou, the manager. We would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Philiou for fostering an atmosphere that encourages us to return. Without you and your staff, many of our weekends would be BLAH.

YOUR TURN ON STAGE

It is no exaggeration to say that thousands of people have been touched by John Szuhay in his classes, plays, audiences, and "bull" sessions. That touch, though gentle, became indelible. He reaches our souls and makes each one of us feel like we are "center stage" in his eyes. This is one, rare human being.

Rare and gifted, too. Nowhere is Mr. Szuhay's genius more evident than when he becomes Mr. Director. Watching him mold nervous, theatrical novices into confident, enthusiastic performers is an experience to behold. The process is never easy. Sitting in "his" chair, Mr. Szuhay pushes, pulls, cajoles, yells, argues, encourages, teases, and demands our best. Each finished, successful product IS Mr. Szuhay.

The curtain has yet to close. The play of this man's life is titled, "LOVE." He is the performer, director, and producer all wrapped in one. And we, his audience, marvel, learn, grow, and applaud.

There is no way that we could thank you for ALL that you have given us, Mr. Szuhay. You have given yourself. The dedication of this MAYFIELDER is our inadequate, but sincere, way of giving you ourselves.

SERVING OTHERS

All too often we hear of the "ME" generation in America: those individuals who lead solitary lives while wearing blinders. They don't and never will want to get involved. Such was never the case with Mr. Ted Moses.

For the 32 years that he was a Mayfield Heights resident, Ted Moses left a significent impact upon his community. The Mayfield Heights Little League, the Mayfield Heights Bicentennial Committee, and our School Board are just a few of the organizations that greatly benefited from the unselfish leadership of this man.

In serving as a board member for the last 12 years, Mr. Moses played a leading role in developing the Millridge Center for the Hearing Impaired. Few realize that this program serves 26 school districts and was recently voted the outstanding program of its type in our entire nation.

Whether it was helping to develop curriculum or working to implement bond or levy campaigns, Mr. Ted Moses was always stepping to the forefront to maintain a position of leadership that set the standard for others. His loss will only serve to remind us of what each of us is truly capable of. It's the giving that makes a community, and Mr. Moses gave us more than most.

Any student or alumnus of Mayfield High School for the last 22 years who does not remember Mrs. Jan Harris has led a rather sheltered and unobtrusive life. He has never been ill and had to call home; he probably never got a "see me" from his counselor; and he never had to stroll into our 9-10 office to get a detention for being late to school or to class. Through all of this, Mrs. Harris has been an oasis of kindness for anyone in need of a pleasant smile in a moment of frustration.

Since 1961, Mrs. Harris has had the job of seeing to the multitude of requests from both students and teachers. If that wasn't enough to keep her busy, she has for all these years been secretary to the 9-10 counselors. Like those counselors, she served as a mother or close friend to comfort us until someone from home came to our aid.

Mrs. Harris retires at the conclusion of this school year to be with her family, especially her grandchildren. This woman and friend who has been such a gentle part of our being here will truly be missed by all.

NOTE: The following is to be sung to the tune of "You Are My Sunshine."

You were my sunshine, my only sunshine
You made me happy each sunny day.
I never knew (sigh)
How much I loved you.
'Till they took my sunshine away.

The other module,
As I lay sleeping,
I dreamt you filled my study halls.
When I awake though,
I was mistaken;
For the windows all were walls.

You were my sunshine, my only sunshine
You filled the hallways and each stairway,
I never knew (sob)
How much I loved you
'Till they took my sunshine away.

Do you remember the very first time you saw one of your elementary school teachers in Fazio's or strolling the aisles of the Richmond Mall? You were probably as shocked as we were to learn that they had to buy food or that they even wore "blue jeans." Too often we still associate our instructors with their classrooms. Like us, they have families of which they are an integral part. They take their children to the movies on Saturday afternoon and return home to mow the lawn or rake leaves out to the tree lawn. Yes, they even spend many hours daydreaming to the sounds of their favorite tapes.

Seeing Mr. Chordas and his son David should serve as a reminder to all of us. Beyond being someone's history, science, or math teacher, our staff members are loving moms and dads who care not only for the welfare of their own families, but for our futures as well. We should care that they do.

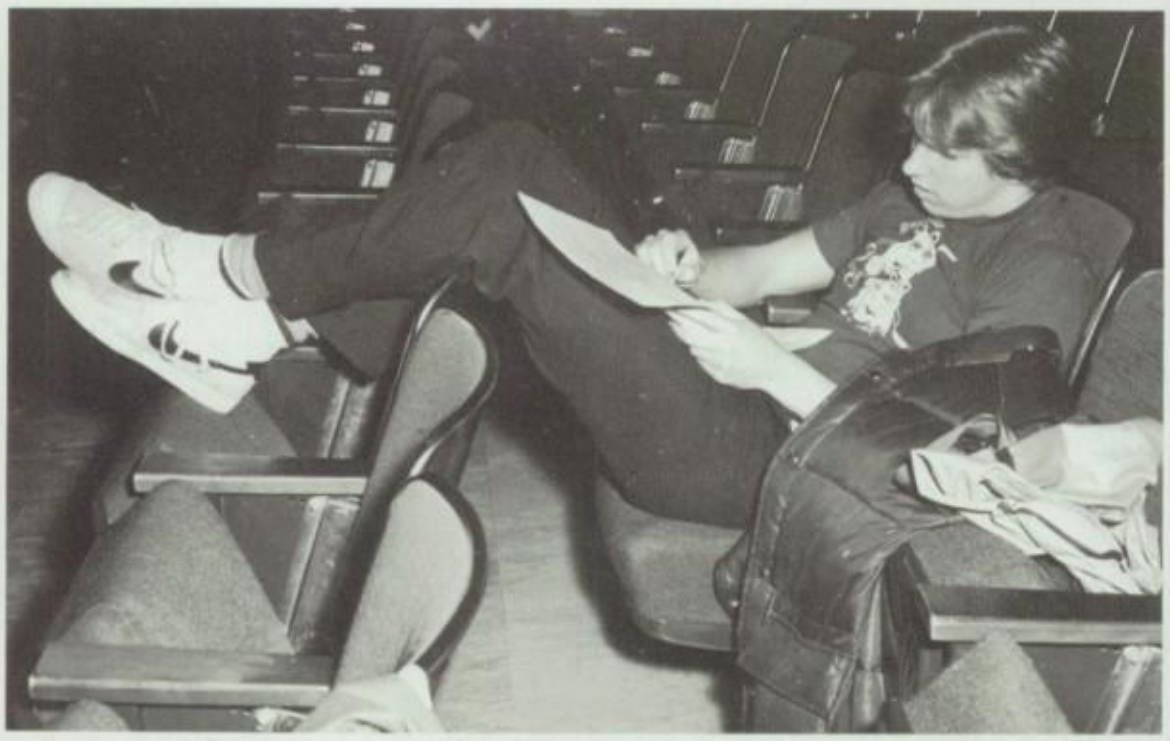
When we use the word "intense," we usually think of athletes. This picture of Gregg Adzema may change your mind.

Talk about intense. Kurt Miller squeezes in a homework assignment between rehearsal scenes of "Guys and Dolls."



Whoever thought of the phrase "poetry in motion" must have been thinking of Jackie Liszak.

This bundle of energy and enthusiasm that we call Nancy Kalina rarely sits in one place for long.

After completing an undefeated season, Coach Morgan congratulates Paul Hrics of the freshmen team.

Few teams shared in the joy of each other's successes as much as the gymnastics' team. Gayle Bolek and Linda Eisenmann were each other's strongest supporters.

LOOKING BACK

There have been times over the past year when we've wondered whether we'd make it. Each of us had deadlines to meet and goals to reach, and it's never easy to measure up to expectations. Finally, though, we've gone the distance. A tremendous variety of talents, personalities, and dreams shaped the last year, and now we stand and look back - united in pride.

Long lasting memories.
